Pupils in fight to save sixth form

Ariane Hill
Reporter

A TEENAGER is fighting to save her school's sixth form so it can be used by future generations.

Charlotte Roberts, who is currently in year 13 at Cynffig Comprehensive School, is part of a group of sixth formers fighting to save the provision.

The group has started an online petition, which has over 600 signatures, which compliments staff and describes the school as "nurturing".

The group has also been calling on the community to take part in the Bridgend County Borough Council consultation regarding the future of sixth forms in the Bridgend area.

The 17-year-old said that while the closure of the sixth form at the Kenfig Hill school would not affect her directly, it is important to her to protect it for future pupils. Ms Roberts said: "All the schools in our area are under threat of losing their sixth forms. It's about a year ago when the council first brought the proposal to our attention with an online consultation.

"We [Ms Roberts and her classmates] decided, as a group, that we wanted to raise awareness and to try to save the sixth form."

Cynffig Comprehensive School is one of the smallest schools in the area with a sixth form of 61 pupils. However the school, BOMB disposal experts rushed to Penarth after an explosive device was unearthed by a family this week.

Police evacuated several homes and closed down a series of roads during rush-hour after a 'live incendiary bomb' was discovered. Penarth resident Tammy Ryan stumbled across the WWII ordnance during a family walk along the beach on Monday afternoon.

Banned driver wrote off car during lengthy high-speed chase

DURING a 13-mile police chase in the Vale of Glamorgan, a motorist drove at more than 120 mph and crashed into a car which was a write off.

Cardiff Crown Court heard that 31-year-old milk depot manager Amritpal Thandi drove at an astonishing speed.

"It was nothing short of a miracle no one was killed or seriously injured" said Judge David Wynn Morgan.

Thandi admitted charges of dangerous driving, driving while disqualified, and possessing cannabis.

He had worked in the south Wales area but his home was in Dudley, west Midlands.

He was jailed for 18 months, and was disqualified from driving for two years, nine months, ordered to take an extended driving test and upon his release to pay a court surcharge of £149.

Said the Judge: "Your driving that day, and your driving history, indicates you have a complete lack of regard for rules and regulations."

He added: "It is inconceivable that the court can do anything but impose an immediate custodial sentence."

Said his counsel, David Leathley: "He is insecure and tormented. He has lost everything and this is his Armageddon."

Prosecutor Byron Broadstock said that on July 21, a police motorcyclist spotted Thandi driving a Citroen at Culverhouse Cross with no number plate.

With the blue light on, the officer followed but Thandi failed to stop and drove towards St Nicholas at 90 mph before going through Bonvilston at 70 mph and then 110 mph on the Cowbridge by-pass.

Towards Pentre Meurig, said Mr Broadstock, Thandi hit 90 mph and when a patrol car joined in the chase, he reached 120 mph. At Crack Hill, he took a right hand bend at 110 mph and went towards Bridgend town centre through red lights at 50 mph.

By then, said Mr Broadstock, two tyres had been punctured and he stopped and ran off.

Earlier, the court heard, at St Lythans, he hit a Volkswagen which was subsequently written off.

His car, the court heard, had a large amount of collision damage. Thandi had been drinking but was later found to be below the legal limit.

On him, there was a small amount of cannabis.

Thandi was said to have previous convictions for driving with excess alcohol, supplying drugs, criminal damage, driving without due care, speeding, and having no insurance.

Mr Leathley said: "He has made Herculean efforts to lead an industrious life."

He was, he said, more frightened than any previous client of going to prison.

WWII bomb discovery sparks evacuations

By Megan Stanley

Reporter
editorial@glamorgan-gem.co.uk

A FAMILY unwittingly brought home a World War Two bomb from Penarth beach – causing neighbours to be evacuated and sparking commuter chaos.

Tammy Ryan, 41, was on a beach walk with her daughter, husband and dog when they found the bomb on Monday.

"We didn't realise what it was, we just took it home and thought it was something that washed up in the storm," said Mrs Ryan.

Mrs Ryan and her family took the bomb back to her home in Andrew Road, Penarth.

It wasn't until she used Google Lens image recognition technology, that they realised it was a WW2 incendiary device.

Mrs Ryan, who works as a paramedic, called South Wales Police who evacuated her neighbours to Penarth Leisure Centre and cordoned off the area.

Police also closed Barry Road, between the junction with Penarth Road and the turning to Llandough.

"I was absolutely mortified; it was rather embarrassing. We sincerely apologise," said Mrs Ryan.

She said that they normally take things from the beach, like beech wood or shells.

"Obviously, we have never taken a bomb home before," she continued: "Luckily we had the thought to remove it from the beach, if kids had found it who knows what would have happened."

Mrs Ryan said the Penarth Leisure Centre staff were "fantastic".

"Some of them stayed late, and they gave us tea and coffee," said Mrs Ryan.

She added that some of the children joked that they should have brought their swimming kit.

A spokesperson for South Wales Police said: "Army bomb disposal units were deployed and the item was confirmed as a live incendiary bomb and safely removed."

Due to the road closure, many commuters faced a nightmare journey home on Monday evening.

Barry Road was reopened at 8.30pm, almost four hours after the initial road closure.

"Next time we find something unusual on the beach, we will do our research there – not at home," said Mrs Ryan.

Ogmore MP and AM attend bank breakfast

THE newly refurbished and impressive 'Old House' in Llangynwyd played host to a Lloyds Bank 'Business Breakfast' as part of an ongoing series of events being held across Wales.

Attended by Ogmore AM Huw Irranca-Davies, MP Chris Elmore and Lloyds Banking Group's ambassador for Wales Carys Williams, the breakfast gave local small and medium enterprises (SME), an opportunity to voice their opinions on the current business environment and various other topics, including impacts of Brexit, business rates and loans.

Contributions were heard from Lloyds Bank's business clients and the bank's local SME specialist was also on hand to answer any questions and facilitate the event.

Following the event, Mr Irranca-Davies said: "Many thanks to Carys and Lloyds Bank for organising the business breakfast and to the superb Old House in Llangynwyd for their warm welcome – an ideal cultural setting to discuss local business prospects.

"It was good to discuss a host of wide-ranging issues with the local businesses who attended such as business support and rates, empty properties, post-Brexit regional investment, local parking, ways to maintain our high streets, housing and much more. A constructive and insightful meeting."

Mr Elmore said: "Today's Business Breakfast has been a really positive opportunity to come together and discuss a range of issues affecting local businesses from across Ogmore.

"From business rates, support for our high streets, to the impact of Brexit, this has been a really productive way to take the pulse of the local business community."

"A huge thank you to Lloyds Bank and the 'Old House' for hosting the event. Please do pop in if you haven't had a chance to yet."

MP's competition prize winners

OGMORE MP Chris Elmore visited Maesteg School to award the winner of his Christmas card competition.

Riley Llewelyn won last year's competition, but Chris was unable to visit the school to present him with his prize due to December's General Election campaign.

During his visit, Chris congratulated Riley on his inspired design and also presented one of the competition's two runners-up, Shania, with an additional prize.

The other, Kian Thomas from Ysgol Bryn Castell, was given a prize by Chris at a school assembly last month.

Pleased Mr Elmore apologised that he wasn't able to attend sooner.

Landlord's new chief executive

A SOCIAL housing landlord said it is "delighted" to announce the appointment of Joanne Oak as their new chief executive.

Social housing landlord company Valleys to Coast made the "exciting announcement last week

Joanne replaces interim chief executive Duncan Forbes at the Bridgend based company in May.

The new chief executive said: "I'm delighted to be appointed to lead Valleys to Coast at an exciting time, to drive forward the ambition to build new quality homes and deliver excellent services for our customers.

"I am passionate about making a difference, ensuring everyone has access to a decent home and that we build vibrant communities."

Arrest at football game

POLICE are appealing for witnesses after an assault at a six-a-side football match at Pencoed College.

The assault took place shortly after 7pm on Monday, January 20.

A 28-year-old man from Porthcawl was arrested on suspicion of assault and has since been released by police officers under investigation.

A police spokesman said: "We want to hear from anyone who may have any information concerning this incident and who has not yet contacted us."

Anyone with information should call 101 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 55111 quoting reference 2000024972.

Owen Thomas with the leading actors, Gwenllian and Gareth, from West which had its premiere at the North American Festival of Wales in Milwaukee last summer

A PLAY which was premiered at a festival in America is coming to Porthcawl.

West, had its debut at the North American Festival of Wales in Milwaukee on August 30 of last year, will be at The Grand Pavilion in the seaside town on Wednesday, March 11.

Written by Owen Thomas, a former drama teacher at Y Pant Comprehensive School in Pontyclun, has previously said: "It follows the journey of a couple who fall in love, marry and decide to leave their home in Wales to set up a new life.

"It is inspired by the life changing and demanding journeys of the first Welsh settlers who decided to build a new life for themselves. It's a love story exploring the theme of immigration."

West, which is inspired by the first Welsh settlers in America, stars Gwenllian Higginson and Gareth John Bale, who also directed it, who are both pictured right with Owen.

Porthcawl is the last stop for the play on its Welsh tour, following two nights at the London Welsh Centre. The play, which starts at Pontardawe Arts

Candidate gypsy sites

RESIDENTS have been invited to submit candidate sites for a new gypsy and traveller site after a suitable location could not be identified by Vale of Glamorgan Council.

The council said its Adopted Vale of Glamorgan Local Development Plan 2011-2026 includes a commitment in the approved monitoring framework to identify a suitable site for gypsies and travellers.

It is to accommodate the need which was identified in the Gypsy and Traveller Accommodation Assessment which was carried out in 2016.

However, initial work undertaken by the council's gypsy and traveller accommodation board to find a site was unsuccessful so it is now calling on submissions.

Submissions for candidate sites, which must be at least 0.5 hectares, opened on Monday, February 17 – the deadline is at 5pm on Monday, March 30.

A Vale of Glamorgan Council spokesman said: "The Council has a statutory requirement to assess the requirements of Gypsy and Traveller groups in its area and if necessary, identify a site for them.

"Initial work undertaken by the Council's Gypsy and Traveller Accommodation Board, which includes investigating Council-owned land and approaching large landowners, failed to identify a suitable site.

"Therefore, the Council has placed adverts in the local press, asking those who own appropriate sections of land to come forward."

Each site will be assessed to make sure it can satisfy planning policy requirements and to see that is deliverable.

Submitted candidate sites will be compiled into a site register which will become publicly available in due course.

Candidate sites should be submitted using the candidate site form which is available to download on the consultations section of the Vale of Glamorgan Council's website. Paper copies are available from the council's Barry office.

More information is available on the council's website or by calling 01446 700111.

Forms should be returned either by emailing dp@valeofglamorgan.gov.uk, or by posting or returning them to the LDP team at the Docks Office, Barry Docks, Barry with the postcode CF63 4RT.

Centre on Valentine's Day, will also visit Brecon, Machynlleth, Denbigh, Crwys, Abertillery and Tiny Rebel in Cardiff.

Owen, 43, said he wrote it after the good reception to his play Grav, a play about Welsh rugby player Ray Gravell, at the festival last year.

After the debut of the play, Owen who lives with his family in Tongwynlais said: "The play was so warmly received that I was asked if I wanted to bring another play this year to the 90th anniversary North American Festival of Wales in Milwaukee."

"The opportunity to write something original was too good to miss, and as the festival is attended by people with Welsh heritage from all across the United States, I decided to write an original piece focusing on the journey of so many of their ancestors."

"I hope they liked it. I am very proud of the piece."

Tickets for the play, which starts at 7.30pm, can be bought at The Grand Pavilion's website or by calling 01656 815995.

Wise old Womble swaps Wimbledon for Maesteg Recycling Centre

UNDERGROUND, overground, Wombling free - the Wombles from Wimbledon know a thing or two about making good use of the things that they find, the things that everyday folks leave behind.

And following in their footsteps, Bridgend County Borough Council has been working with its partners Kier and the social enterprise Wastesavers to open a reuse shop at the Maesteg Recycling Centre.

Great Uncle Bulgaria, the oldest and wisest Womble, officially opened the new store, called The Siding, on Valentine's Day.

The shop contains a vast array of items including bikes, scooters, books, DVDs, speakers, games and crockery.

Since opening its doors in October, the shop has sold thousands of items and made more than £3,500 which is invested into Wastesavers' volunteer and social programmes.

Alun Harries, charity manager for Wastesavers, said: "Between October and December, five tonnes was saved from going to landfill.

"When residents come to the three recycling centres in Bridgend staff will pick out anything they think is too good to go to landfill."

"We have reuse shops in Newport, Rhondda Cynon Taf and one is soon due to open in Cardiff - there's always a steady flow at the start when a shop opens but once word gets out it just balloons."

Bridgend County Borough Council leader Huw David, who also attended last Friday's launch, said: "No doubt the use of the shop is going to grow and grow."

"It is really important that we are offering this service in partnership with Kier and Wastesavers. It is very much part of our climate emergency agenda."

And he added: "We haven't declared a climate emergency in Bridgend because we believe in action and this is one of a series of actions we are undertaking to help deal with the crisis we face."

"We already have the second highest recycling rate in Wales and Wales has the third highest recycling rate in the world."

"We are doing a huge amount but we need to do a lot more."

New action team for cat adoption centre

Can you give a little time to make a big difference to Bridgend cats?

CATS Protection's Bridgend Adoption Centre is launching a Cat Action team to support the activities at the centre and its work in the community.

The centre will be opening the doors to potential new volunteers to join the team on Sunday, February 23 at 11am at the centre on Pant Hirwaun in Bryncethin, where a variety of roles will be available.

Alternatively, those who relish planning and preparation would fit the fundraising events organiser role.

For hands-on cat welfare, become a trap neuter return (TNR) volunteer makes a real difference.

TNR volunteers help reduce the number of feral cats by setting humane traps to safely capture cats; taking them to vets to be neutered, and friends to donated food.

Anyone who loves to unravel a mystery would be well-suited to the lost and found volunteer role, helping to reunite lost and found cats and as well as supporting families hoping to be reunited with their feline companions.

If you love meeting people and sharing your passion for cats, there are several fundraising roles.

Local TNR programmes are crucial, as feral and abandoned cats present huge challenges for communities across the UK. Many people need advice about the benefits of neutering their own cats, or assistance to reduce the number of feral cats in the area.

Sue Dobbs, Adoption Centre Manager, says:

"All of these are flexible roles, with the opportunity to provide support for as much or little time as you are able to give.

"From supporting a fundraising event during returning them to their territory.

Local TNR programmes are crucial, as feral and abandoned cats present huge challenges for communities across the UK. Many people need advice about the benefits of neutering their own cats, or assistance to reduce the number of feral cats in the area.

"It is also possible to become involved in more than one role as part of the Cat Action team.

"Do call in and visit us on February 23 or, if you can't make the day, email or visit our website. We'd love to hear from you."

MP gets an insight into life on a farm

BRIDGEND Welsh Conservative MP Jamie Wallis has visited a local farm which has diversified into holiday lets and a dairy.

Ty Tanglewst Farm in North Cornelly is run by John and Liz Louther and their son Rhys. They made a decision back in 2003 to change direction. Rhys explained: "At that time, we were a dairy farm sending our milk in a tanker to dairies in England, for it to then come back to be sold in local shops."

"With help from the WDA, we decided to set up our own pasteurising plant, dairy and bottling plant and use the milk ourselves. Now, we have six vans on the road doing doorstep deliveries and we also supply local smaller shops and catering businesses including ice cream makers. We make and market under our own brand milk, cream and butter."

Jamie had a tour of the farm and saw some of the farm's 110-strong herd of pedigree Holstein cows as they were heading into the milking parlour. All the animals were born and bred on the farm.

Jamie said: "I take my hat off to them. They provide employment for 24 people and are helping to keep their farm produce local. They also have holiday lets created out of farm buildings, which draw people in from all over the world.

"I am keen to encourage local businesses and employment to boost the local economy and this is a good example of how to do this in our area."

Council starts electric vehicle pilot scheme

Renewables.

BRIDGEND County Borough Council has started a three-month pilot using electric vehicles for staff who travel across the county as part of their roles.

The local authority has hired four small electric vans in place of existing diesel vehicles, with three set aside for a team in facilities management and one being used as a pool car.

The vehicles will be charged overnight at Cenin Renewables, based near Porthcawl, using 100 per cent green electricity generated from the company's own wind, solar and food waste energy, with an arrangement to use charging points at other local businesses when necessary.

The cabinet member for communities, Cllr Richard Young, said the pilot project was the start of "radical change" for the council.

He said: "It is about running council vehicles more efficiently and reducing the council's carbon footprint.

"We already have enough data to show electric vehicles can make a difference not only to the reduction of carbon emissions but also to the reduction of fuel claims, enabling the council to save a substantial amount of time and money."

The aim of the pilot is to prove a business case to obtain funding which would enable the local authority to buy around eight electric vehicle charging points for its offices in Ravens Court.

Cllr Young said: "A typical fossil-fuelled vehicle would cost us around £11 in fuel for every 100 miles - for these electric vehicles, it is set at £5 per 100 miles meaning you could save half the amount we currently spend."

"The vans also only need to come into the workshops on an annual basis to be serviced."

"On top of the long-term cost benefits and the environmental benefits, you could argue it's what we should be doing as a means of trying to attract and retain staff, and this is something we hope to look at in the near future."

"If our charging points are available to staff and it's going to be hassle-free parking then that can only be a bonus."

"We've got 15 years left of diesel and petrol cars, we have got to be planning for that."

The pilot project is a collaboration between South Wales Police and the council - both organisations share a fleet services maintenance depot.

We are proud to have helped generations of local families at their time of need, providing the peace of mind that everything is taken care of in a professional and dignified manner.

MP backs students in fight for sixth forms

Ms Roberts said that while she has attended the school, her commute has been a 10 minute walk but that would change for other local pupils if the sixth form is closed.

"I live in Kenfig so at the moment I have a 10 minute walk to get to school, but if it was somewhere else I'd have to get a bus".

Ms Roberts said: "But the council told us 'you'll have to get to the school and you'll have to pay for it'.

"We're all quite outraged that it's been suggested. It feels like money has come before educational need."

"Obviously it's not going to affect me but it will affect future people in the school. If I knew a school did not have a sixth form, I would choose to go elsewhere."

The student said that staff and pupils at the school are "anxious" and that they have not yet been given a timeline.

She said: "We're just trying to gain support. The online consultation is until February 21 on the council website, and we're trying to get as many people as possible to fill it in."

"That's our main thing but we do also have the petition."

The survey can be found on the BCBC website, and the petition can be found on the Change.Org website under the title "Save Cynffig's Sixth Form".

No decision has been made yet regarding any of the sixth form provisions in the Bridgend area, and BCBC's consultation will be finishing tomorrow – Friday, February 21 – before the data is analysed for a report to the Cabinet.

This will make up the fourth phase of the council's "Post-16 educational review".

BCBC said the review outlines that the main issue is that many sixth forms in the county borough are 'too small' to remain financially viable, meaning there is a limited range of available subjects – the council said it has outlined proposals to deal with this.

The Labour-led local authority said it wants to create centres with a minimum capacity of 250 students which will make sure there are enough learners to provide a broad curriculum, enable minority subjects such as modern languages to be protected, and use resources more efficiently.

There are three options which have been under consideration during the consultation – the first is mixing school sixth forms with some mergers to create new local authority-maintained sixth form centres, including a new 'post-16 centre of excellence'.

The second is mixing sixth forms with some mergers to create new further education college-governed sixth form centres, including a new build college in the town centre.

And, the third is retaining sixth forms at all schools with further development to improve this option's delivery, such as greater use of online learning.

BCBC has said that there will be separate arrangements for Welsh medium schools such as Ysgol Llangynwyd and faith education schools such as Archbishop McGrath.

Pupils at Cynffig School have received support from Bridgend MP Jamie Wallis.

The Conservative MP said he had met with the "very passionate" pupils at Cynffig Comprehensive about their sixth form provision in the school.

Mr Wallis said: "I recently met with pupils from Cynffig Comprehensive School, who were very passionate about their sixth form provision in the school, and I'm supporting them wholeheartedly."

"I'm worried about the impact that Bridgend Council's potential proposals will have on future generations of students from the area, many of whom will simply not go on to stay in education if post-16 provision isn't made available at their local school."

"What's more, BCBC aren't clear either about whether they will cover the cost of transport for these learners if they are forced to study elsewhere, as a result of their local sixth form closing."

"I'm currently drafting my own response to BCBC's consultation on these plans, which closes imminently, so I'd urge local students, parents and members of the local community to do the same and make their voice heard."

However a spokesman for BCBC said no decision has been made yet.

The spokesman said: "Bridgend County Borough Council is currently looking at how post-16 education is provided as part of a wider strategic review of schools."

"Because we want this to be as open and as transparent as possible, we placed a full range of possibilities before the public along with detailed analysis of the associated risks and benefits."

"It is important to note that no decisions have been made yet, and one of the three options under consideration already includes retaining sixth form provision at all secondary schools."

"We want this to be a genuine consultation which can be used to inform the final decision, and as such we have encouraged as many people as possible to take part and have their say."

Convenience store wins top award

SANDRA Tickner, who runs the Pen Y Fai convenience store, The Selection Box, has won the National Federation of Retail News Award for Independent Retailer of the Year, from entries across the whole of the UK.

Naga Munchetty from the BBC presented the award at the Lancaster Hotel in London on January 28.

Sandra's customers are delighted, but not surprised by the award which she truly deserves because of the consistently good service that she provides,

Budding photographers praised at society's competition

PYLE and Porthcawl Photographic Society recently held its annual Club Competition Three, which was split into Prints and Digital Images, with a trophy for each.

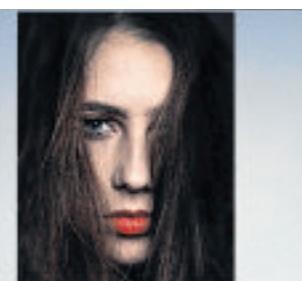

Gareth Martin from Port Talbot judged both competitions, and not only awarded the points, but also provided an excellent critique on each image.

The winner of the Print Trophy was Heather Roper with 'Coal Tit' and the winner of the Digital Trophy was Howard Evans with 'Look!'

A group spokesman said: "Congratulations to both Heather and Howard for winning and thank you to all participants for making it such an interesting and entertaining evening."

"We're a very friendly camera club with a mix of male and female members, and welcome new members of all ages and skill levels; it's all very informal so if you have an interest in photography why not come along and join us on Thursday evenings at 7:30pm at St Clare's School, Newton CF36 5NR. Our program is available at www.pyle-porthcawl-ps.co.uk."

Man taken to hospital after one-car collision

A SIXTY-five year old man was taken to hospital after a one-vehicle crash in Bridgend.

Emergency services were called following the collision which involved a Citroen C3 car on Monday morning, February 17 in the Coity area.

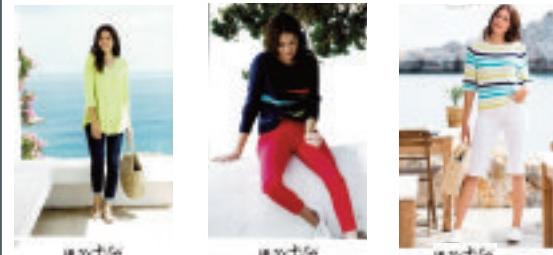

The man was taken to the Princess of Wales Hospital as a precaution before later returning home following the collision at 7.25am on Heol Simonston.

It is understood that traffic between Singleton Bridge and Brackla round was being diverted.

A South Wales Police spokesman said: "Emergency services were called following a single vehicle road traffic collision which was reported at 7.25am yesterday morning. The collision took place on Heol Simonston in the Coity area of Bridgend and involved a Citroen C3 car."

"The 65 year-old male driver was taken to Princess of Wales Hospital as a precaution and was later able to return home."

SAVE THE OLD GIRLS' SCHOOL IN COWBRIDGE FROM DEMOLITION

Object to Hafod's Latest Plans

Planning Application 2018/01408/FUL

Hafod Housing Association have resubmitted plans to demolish the school in its entirety and replace it with 34 housing units; a three-storey block of flats and 4 townhouses. Despite efforts from the community to work with them on a scheme that would retain the building whilst also providing social housing, Hafod have instead continued with their plans to bulldoze through Cowbridge's heritage and character.

Why is the school so important?

- The school was the first to be built specifically for the secondary education of girls in Wales (and England) as a result of the Welsh Intermediate Education Act of 1896
- It is a recognised historic asset and has been recommended for 'County Treasure' status
- The school has many unusual architectural features and was designed by an architect who was considered a pioneer of his time
- The school survives as a prominent and attractive testimony to the equal educational opportunities afforded to underprivileged girls of the time

Storm Dennis leaves path of destruction across Wales

STORM Dennis battered south Wales over the weekend, leaving a path of destruction and flooding.

A red weather warning was in place from 6.10am until 11am on Sunday, February 16 which covered most of south Wales including Bridgend, the Vale of Glamorgan, Ogmore Vale and Rhondda Cynon Taf – a month's worth of rain is thought to have fallen in some areas of south Wales in only a few hours.

Storm Dennis, which descended upon the UK on Valentine's Day – Friday, February 14 – was only days after Storm Ciara which had swept the UK during the previous weekend.

Areas such as Peterston-Super-Ely experienced flooding which affected businesses and left residents stranded.

While the Vale of Glamorgan village was accessible from the end nearest to St Fagans, residents were warned to avoid travelling through it.

Vale Communities for Future

Generations (VCFG) said it was a "powerful reminder" of the impact of climate change and that it would be a greater problem if the plans go ahead for the new airport slip road linking the M4 at junction 34 to the A48.

The group has claimed the plan is "out of date" and without "valid" environmental impact studies.

Ogmore Vale is also understood to have experienced some flooding, with posts on social media appealing for help for the Ogmore Valley Welfare Hall which was flooded.

A property on Commercial Street is also thought to have been flooded, and in Corbett Street council workers put sandbags around homes to protect them from a culvert which had become overwhelmed.

Council workers also worked hard to clear culverts in Pencoed at Min-y-Nant and Green Acre Drive.

Meanwhile Nantymoel and Ogmore Vale Pharmacies has warned its users to order repeat prescriptions earlier and to allow more time as its main supplier, Phoenix, is based in Nantgarw which was badly flooded.

The A4063 which links Bridgend and Cymer, closed over the weekend due to a fallen tree, however it reopened on Sunday afternoon.

Pontyclun also experienced flooding in the wake of Storm Dennis, as the river Ely burst its banks near Brynsadler.

The village football pitch, home to Pontyclun Football Club, was flooded along with the footpaths which lead from the A4222 to Ivor Woods.

Porthcawl experienced debris in areas like the Boardwalk following the high tide from the rain water, with drift wood and rocks strewn across the public footpath.

South Wales Fire and Rescue Service, South Wales Police, Bridgend County Borough Council, Vale of Glamorgan Council and RCT all praised their workers for working to combat Storm Dennis on the weekend while the storm was ongoing and this week during the clean up.

South Wales fire service is thought to have received an unprecedented 1,300 calls over the weekend.

A yellow weather warning for rain is still in place today, Thursday, at 3pm.

Welsh Government 'losing battle to eradicate TB'

THE Shadow Minister for Rural Affairs, Andrew RT Davies AM/AC, has blasted the Welsh Labour Government over its approach to bovine TB as the latest figures show another shock increase – up by 14 percent – in livestock slaughtered because of the disease.

Mr Davies, who is the Member for South Wales Central, and a farmer, said that the administration in Wales is "... losing the battle to manage and eradicate bovine TB". The latest set of statistics for November 2019 follow two consecutive months that each showed record increases. In the 12 months to November 2019, 12,354 cattle – up by 1,518 from 10,836 – were slaughtered due to bovine TB. The figures for England for the same period show a four-percent decrease from 32,937 to 31,562.

Mr Davies said: "Let's be clear about this: the battle to eradicate bovine TB is being lost by the Welsh Labour Government here in Wales. The action and measures it has implemented to date are letting down the farming community and wildlife population in Wales, and a lasting solution is long overdue.

"Livelihoods are at stake, and no amount of compensation – the average cost of £179,000 per this."

herd for compensation and testing is not really reparation – for the loss and anxiety suffered makes up for it; and we must look at the financial cost, as well as the human and animal suffering.

"Some £14.5 million in compensation was paid to Welsh farmers in 2018-2019. This is an increase on the £11.7m paid during 2017-2018 and £10.9m in 2016-2017. These vast amounts of money from the taxpayer should be spent more wisely than this.

The Minister for Environment, Energy and Rural Affairs, Lesley Griffiths, had said that the current compensation paid to farmers is 'unsustainable'. The Welsh Government is proposing a review of the current bovine TB compensation regime, but no timescales were provided by the Minister when she announced the review in Plenary in April 2019."

Mr Davies concluded by saying: "The sad truth is that these figures highlight that the Labour Government's relationship with and understanding of rural and agricultural Wales is at an all-time low.

"The hardworking farmers of Wales deserve a comprehensive, scientifically-led, holistic programme of bovine TB eradication to tackle the disease in cattle and wildlife, and it looks like only a Welsh Conservative administration would deliver overture.

"Livelihoods are at stake, and no amount of compensation – the average cost of £179,000 per this."

Dog of the Week

WALLACE is a bouncy two-year-old Staffordshire bull terrier-cross-American bulldog.

He is a big softy at heart, and has a sensitive side so looks for slow and positive introductions to new people. Once he knows you, he is fun and playful; but his over-exuberance can be too much for some as he does get a little carried away at times with both humans and dogs!

Canine carer Chelsey Gough says: "Wallace will need some encouragement to become friends, but once the trust is there, he has plenty of love to give and once settled he is sure to flourish in his new home." Wallace will suit an experienced, adult-only home who can continue with his ongoing training. His new family should visit him several times to get to know him, prior to adoption.

For more information on Wallace, visit the Dogs Trust Rehoming Centre in Bridgend, CF31 4NG; or give us call on 01656 338745. You can also visit our website at www.dogstrust.org.uk.

Cameras deployed as part of crackdown on railway abuse

RAILWAY workers will start wearing body worn cameras in a bid to crack down on anti-social behaviour on trains, Transport for Wales has announced.

The company will be giving certain workers, including conductors and station staff, recording equipment as part of a trial.

Cameras are being rolled out after statistics revealed more than 350 incidents of verbal or physical abuse against staff were reported last year.

The body worn camera trial is the railway company's latest venture aimed at stamping out anti-social behaviour, having employed extra security staff and investing in CCTV at every station.

A spokesman for the company revealed the trial will include four different types of cameras and after a review period, one company will be chosen to supply 300 cameras across the network.

Ken Skates, Welsh Government minister for economy and transport, said: "Everyone has the right to work or travel on our network without the fear of abuse or threats."

"The rail staff there to help us are no different to our family and friends. They are working hard to get us from A to B, often in difficult circumstances."

He added: "We must stamp out anti-social behaviour and do everything we can to support staff to do their jobs and let passengers make their journeys in a safe and pleasant environment."

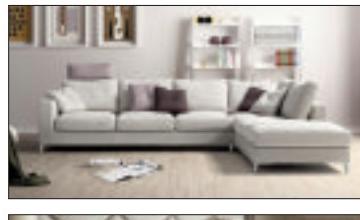

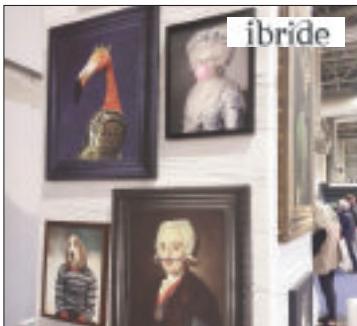

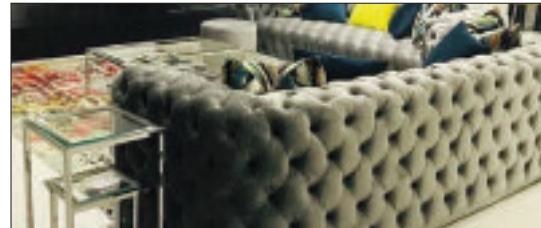

Marc Clancy, a conductor at Transport for Wales, explained: "We have to deal with a range of people daily and most of our customers are grateful and polite.

"We work extremely hard to give our customers the best possible experience when using our services, however at times staff and passengers do experience occasional anti-social behaviour and abuse."

"The introduction of these cameras should act as a deterrent to anti-social behaviour, support assault prosecutions and boost public confidence in safety."

"They will provide front-line staff with more confidence when dealing with difficult situations and abusive customers."

The trial is being delivered by Transport for Wales alongside the British Transport Police.

Leekes picks up a top award

LEEKES have been Housewares Innovation Awards named winners of the 'Best Independent Department Store' category in The Housewares Innovation Awards.

Organised by the publishers of Housewares Magazine, DataTeam said: "The award acknowledges the work of all of the Leekes Business Media and their digital team, ensuring we remain the partner housewareslive.net in home experts our customers trust in conjunction with Spring Fair, the to provide all the inspirational ideas, excellent advice, great quality and well-priced products and comprehensive services they need to improve their home."

The award was collected on behalf of the business by Amanda Reed, buying controller who said: "We are delighted to have been recognised: it's always great to have our efforts rewarded, particularly as an independent retailer in what is an increasingly competitive and fast changing retail environment."

AM backs defib campaign

REGIONAL AM Suzy Davies is backing the St John's Defibuary campaign to raise awareness during February of the importance of having defibrillators located in as many places as possible.

Welsh Conservative Mrs Davies said: "I have campaigned since 2011 for defibrillators to be placed throughout our communities. My legislative proposals to this effect had cross party support from Assembly members but, sadly, not from Welsh Government. Even so, I am delighted that there is now a greater public awareness of the need for them and how easy it is to use them."

"If someone suffers a cardiac arrest away from a hospital setting, there are literally just minutes to save their life. The survival rate for such victims is just one in ten and that drops by a further ten per cent for every minute that passes. Early CPR and defibrillation is vital in saving lives."

"I have also argued for the teaching of life saving skills to be compulsory in schools so children are equipped to deal with these emergencies. Again, I had backing from AMs for this proposal but the Minister has resisted making it a mandatory part of the school curriculum, in contrast to the position in England and Ireland."

"I'm glad, though, that some schools invite organisations like St John's of Cymru, Cariad, Welsh Hearts, British Heart Foundation and the Red Cross to train children and young people to help grow Wales as a nation of lifesavers."

Vets issue advice after dogs struck by vomiting bug

THE British Veterinary Association (BVA) has issued advice for dog owners following a spike in the number of acute gastroenteritis cases being reported in many parts of the country.

Vets report dogs with symptoms including more frequent vomiting than is usually seen in canine gastroenteritis cases, accompanied in a few instances by diarrhoea, anorexia and lethargy.

It is reported that affected dogs usually make a full recovery following prompt veterinary care to treat the symptoms. However, a small number of deaths have been reported; it is currently not clear if these are linked to the condition under investigation.

British Veterinary Association president Daniella

Dos Santos said: "While pet owners are understandably worried, the cases may be part of a normal increase in gastroenteritis that vets usually see during the colder months. Our advice to owners is to call their local vet for advice in the first instance if their dog shows any of these symptoms. If your dog is ill, we'd encourage minimising contact with other dogs until veterinary advice has been sought."

"BVA is also asking vets to report any cases and controls via a questionnaire on the Small Animal Veterinary Surveillance Network (SAVSNET) website, to help researchers build a clearer picture of the outbreak and to investigate if the spike is part of normal seasonal variation or if a specific virus or bacteria is in play."

Allotments thrive thanks to airport

A NEW agreement with Vale of Glamorgan Council will see compost processed in the on-site Food Rocket at Cardiff Airport delivered regularly to nearby Ceri Road allotments in Rhoose.

The first delivery of over 270 kilos of planning and development of the fresh compost was delivered to the allotments recently, which will be available to all plot owners to use to help their fruits, vegetables and plants to thrive and grow. Every fortnight the allotment owners will receive a fresh delivery of approximately 120 kilos.

Cllr Neil Moore, Leader of the Vale of Glamorgan Council said: "This is an innovative scheme that will provide the allotments at Ceri Road with nutrient-rich compost. On behalf of our allotment tenants, I'd like to thank Cardiff Airport for this generous donation."

New business enjoys a warm welcome

A NEW business in Cowbridge, Enchanté, says it has received an incredibly warm welcome.

Owner Suzanne Dickenson told The GEM: "I cannot believe the love and welcome from the town."

"Bringing a smile to Cowbridge is exactly what we wanted! Customers are blown away by how lovely the store looks inside, with its hidden gem upstairs.

"This holds the most elegant of sofas – old English leather and tartan chairs accompanied by the cutest of lamps and sophisticated stylish marble dining tables – with knocker chairs – the in thing I'm told.

"Gracing the floor stands an old reclaimed dining table that sits 10, and the bed is out of this world – a new fluffy style that is the latest design with soft lambswool. It's the cutest thing ever! It's a must, you have to pop in!"

Suzanne added: "It's a real treat to work here. Having served the UK for 27 years from industrial warehouses, Cowbridge is a comfy treat!"

For more information, see Enchanté's advert on page 13.

NEWS FROM LOCAL CLUBS AND SOCIETIES

Ramblers enjoy the calm between the storms

AFTER the mayhem of recent high winds and heavy rainfall, Penarth and District's last two walks passed without a hitch, firstly when a group of 22 walkers joined Geraint for a delightful local walk beginning in Dinas Powys.

In bright sunshine they set off over Cadoxton Brook, through the Millfields and the beech wood into the muddy wooded Cwm George where Jelly Ear fungus was spotted on a tree. Following a farm track and re-crossing the river, Cwrt-yr-Ala Road led them uphill towards The Lawns and into meadows, over rickety stiles and uphill past Coed y Ddyluan onto firmer open meadows.

More fields brought them towards Leckwith Woods for morning break before a slippery ascent through the woods to Leckwith (or Cock Hill) with its stunning views out over Cardiff Bay and the Bristol Channel.

Following the road to Leckwith Road and on past St James' Church, now converted into two dwellings, they passed the common and set off downhill to enter muddy woodland, before boggy meadows led to Michaelston-le-Pit. Following the Church of St Michael with its delightful carved lych gate, they crossed the river for the last time to slither through thick wet mud on its banks on their journey back to the start, but at least it stayed dry.

Following Storm Ciara, seven walkers plus Ramakin the dog joined Joy and Biddy at Wenvoe Church on an overcast but dry morning for a local walk of seven miles. They set off through the village, climbing up Pound Lane, lit up by miniature daffodils, to enter Wenvoe Wood.

A few dark clouds gathered overhead, dumping a short sharp shower of hailstones on the group as they made their way towards Coed Nant Bran and, having emerged from the pretty woodland, recently cleared by volunteers from Valeways, the sun came out and the clouds parted.

A strong headwind hit them as they tramped the grassy path beside ploughed fields to St Nicholas, where they made for the church in order to take shelter for morning break in the porch.

After viewing the tomb of the Cory family from Dyffryn in the churchyard they continued by track towards Homri, deviating into lush green meadows overlooking the beautiful Ely Valley, bathed in lovely winter sunshine. They climbed to the Natural Burial Ground at Old Coedardhydlyn with its wonderful sense of space, beauty and peace, before crossing an old stone stile to journey to the A48. Crossing by means of a bridge to the Downs, a narrow muddy track led them past the tall TV mast to the hamlet of Twyn yr Odyn, for the descent through the Wenvoe orchid field back into woodland, where one last field led into Wenvoe village.

On February 22, an eight-mile moderate/hard walk to Fan Hir will leave Cogan Leisure Centre at 9am (No dogs except for assistance ones); call Clive on 029 2065 4156.

On February 23, meet 9.30am at Cogan for a seven-mile easy/moderate walk taking in Clytha Folly and Bettws Newydd Church; call Jan/John on 01446 418514.

An Artist's life at Dinas Powys WI

WE probably all have our own idea of an artist's life and I suspect that it has little to do with business.

Artist Nick Rees from Sully certainly opened the eyes of members of Dinas Powys WI to the life of an artist.

With great humour and humility, Nick both entertained and informed us about the life that has evolved since he gave up working for a bank and succumbed to his passion for painting. His sheer dedication has enabled him to become that rare thing, a successful professional artist.

Nick's beautiful seascapes inspired by the Pembrokeshire coast and his adored north Brittany have brought their rewards. Nick now sells as many original paintings as he has time to execute.

His quiet contemplation of the sea in all its moods and his long-time fascination for boats, have turned his passion into a fulfilling lifestyle.

A mixture of self-indulgence and hard work have brought their own rewards.

The next meeting will be on Monday, March 16 when the topic will be Gardening - a talk about Dyffryn Gardens.

Dinas Powys WI meet on the third Monday of the month at 7.30pm at the Murchfield Community Centre, Sunnycroft Lane, CF64 4QQ.

Visitors and new members always welcome.

Celebrating 70 years of Mynydd Cynffig WI

MYNYDD CYNFFIG WI CELEBRATED OUR 70TH ANNIVERSARY IN THE USUAL VENUE, THE TALBOT CENTER KENFIG HILL (BETWEEN 2PM TO 4.30PM).

Joy Strangward

WI business over, we celebrated with a beautiful cake provided by one of our members, a glass of wine, and lots of laughs. Next month we're all going out for a meal to celebrate our anniversary as well.

Members are looking forward to the next 70 years; but seriously, the WI offers lots of benefits – from trips and courses, to a chance to catch up and have a chat with friends. Our speakers this month were two ladies from Women Seeking Sanctuary in Cardiff, their talk was very enlightening.

Next month we have Mr Robert Taylor, whose talk is on Stormy Down airfield; with lots of us having relatives and friends who worked there we are all looking forward to it. We have a talk each month on a variety of topics. You are bound to enjoy them, and we laugh a lot and talk a lot! Tea and coffee all round with biscuits finishes our meeting – we hope to see you soon.

Travels in Shetland for Bovertown WI

MEMBERS WERE WELCOMED TO THE MONTHLY MEETING BY VICE PRESIDENT DIANE WHO INTRODUCED THE SPEAKER FOR THE EVENING, REV PHILLIP MORRIS.

Phillip and his wife Sheila had filmed their travels in Shetland and Unst. He explained that Shetland was a 14-hour ferry ride from the mainland and Unst was the northernmost island off Britain. We saw a landscape full of contrasts, rich in history from the Vikings to the present day.

Shetland was ruled by the Danes until they mortgaged it to Scotland in the 15th century. The fishing industry has been the island's main livelihood for centuries but the great herring boom in the early 20th century lifted islanders out of poverty. It was a pleasure to see the many sights accompanied by traditional Shetland music.

Following the presentation, business items were discussed: the main ones being the celebratory meal on Thursday, February 21 and the Glamorgan Federation Annual Meeting in Port Talbot on April 20.

Bovertown WI meets on the second Thursday each month at 7.30pm in the Llantwit Major Hall. All are welcome.

Highlight Park WI's latest meeting

AT the weekly knit and natter, there was a lot of nattering – maybe not quite as much knitting!

In our first meeting of 2020 we welcomed Helen Latimer, Puppets Cymru who gave us an insight into how she became involved with puppets, having studied both art and design. Helen makes most of her puppets herself; she works with school children and designs and makes the puppets to suit the story or message she is delivering. She runs puppet making workshops and showed us how a stick, pipe cleaner, piece of material and a little paint can, as if by magic, become a puppet.

She demonstrated how easy it is to become focused on and interact with the puppet and forget there is a human behind it! Thank you Helen.

On January 15 we had our first theatre trip of the year, a trip to Millenium Centre in the Bay to see a wonderful performance of Rogers and Hammerstein's The King and I; everybody was humming and nodding their heads along to the addictive lyrics.

Travelling by coach to Cardiff Bay was a plus and then we dispersed to take lunch in different venues. We all met up later and had an enjoyable afternoon in the cold winter time. Thanks to Sue for arranging this event.

At our craft afternoon, busy bees were making 'Green Hearts' to show the love for the environment and share it among all WI members, and everyone everywhere. Many green hearts were fashioned from material in every shade of green imaginable and decorated with ribbons, buttons, jewels and studded with kapok. A display of them is on show at the Highlight Park Community Hall.

At our knit and natter on January 30 we welcomed our youngest visitor to date, three week old Gracie May, Sally's great-grand daughter. February will see us on a visit to City Hall in Cardiff with afternoon tea and in March, we plan a visit and tour of Cardiff Castle.

Meetings are held at The Highlight Park Community Hall, Barry on Tuesday afternoons from 2pm – 4pm on the first and third of each month, and Thursdays each week at 2pm for knit and natter and craft.

Sully U3A hears a Jewish family history

AT Sully U3A's February meeting, Stanley Soffa revealed the history of Jewish immigration into the UK and Wales, and delved into his own family's personal experiences.

Stanley's father's family came to the UK from Russia in the late 1800s, settling in the densely populated Jewish area of the East End of London. Like many others there, they worked in the tailoring industry. Later, his grandparents left for Cardiff where they set up in business as drapers in City Road. They Jewish community there were served by various synagogues and the cemetery at Highfield Road. But war brought insecurity, with Stanley's family being required to register as aliens in 1916 and again in 1939.

The population of Jews in Wales is now less than one tenth of its size in the 1950s, but their family stories are being collected by the Jewish History Association of South Wales, and many of them can be accessed online by searching The People's Collection Wales.

The next monthly meeting will take the form of a 'Musical Interlude', on Thursday, March 12 at 2pm in the Old School, Sully. For further information on Sully U3A and its activity groups, visit u3asites.org.uk/sully/home, or email membership@sullyu3a.co.uk.

Busy times at full capacity Barry U3A

THE Barry U3A Book Club is currently at full capacity with the maximum number of 10 members.

The club works with Barry Library, who arrange for them to have 10 copies of one book so that they can all read it and come to the monthly meeting with views about it. Some have been hugely enjoyable, others have not gone down well at all, and there are some where the members have been divided.

In any event, members have been reading authors they might otherwise never have tried and which opened them up to different ideas. Anyone can set up a book club and would find Barry library very helpful. If anyone wishes to join Barry U3A and set up another book club, they would be more than welcome.

The speaker for at the February meeting was Gavin Davies, whose main interest is military history, although his stories are rather more eclectic.

He is a member of the Western Front Association so has a lot of knowledge about World War One, but he is also very interested in the American Civil War. He spoke on five different topics at the meeting; his first two topics were introduced in a sort of 'Only Connect' context where he gave several different clues and then the last piece tied it all together. On a completely different tack, he told members the story of the Royal Baccarat Scandal involving the Prince of Wales in 1890; one about Mrs Leslie James, probably the last woman to be hanged in Wales in 1907, and finished with a tale about the family and home life of Grigori Rasputin, from a different perspective to the usual 'mad monk' theme.

The next meeting will be on Monday, March 2 at 2pm in Bethel Baptist Church, Harbour Road on the roundabout in Park Crescent. Anyone interested in joining Barry U3A should call Christine on 01446 701537 or just turn up on the day.

producing a 'thunderstorm' with the choir.

Then in December the Christmas and birthday party was celebrated with a delicious buffet and members were entertained by the WI's own amateur dramatic group, who performed a pantomime based loosely on Cinderella. Also in December several members attended the annual Heritage Group carol service, hosted this time by Llantwit Major WI. As always this was a good evening and an excellent way to start the festive season.

A new year of meetings commenced in January when quizzes were held and members partook of 'nibbles'. In February, members were greatly entertained by John Sheen who talked about 'The Happiest Days' and regaled everyone with memories of his school days, which he interspersed with appropriate poems and much laughter filled the hall. Our next meeting will be on March 5 at 7.30pm when an eisteddfod will be held. Visitors are always welcome to come and join us.

Could you help out at Monday Club?

THE Monday Club started in Cowbridge, offering a social monthly evening for adults with a learning disability, around 1975.

This was a time when places like Hensol Castle 'hospital' were closing, and those housed there were emerging into 'care in the community'. It was also a time when Cowbridge's population was expanding and more people were forming organisations in the town. Some of the club's helpers from the 1970s are still involved today, so it is not hard to guess their ages: a younger generation of helpers is urgently needed – please do come along and try us out!

We have 17 lively club members at the moment, coming in from not just Cowbridge and Llantwit Major, but from as far afield as Barry, Llanharry, Bridgend. Each needs more than one helper, having very individual difficulties; it is heart-warming to see how everyone finds his or her place at the club, taking care of each other, and sharing the fun.

Shy members who hover in the doorway for months gradually become integrated. We try to ensure that every month we offer something to draw people in and include everyone as much as we can. Over the last year, we have had games (organised by Rotary Club); flower arranging, a 'walkabout' treasure hunt (from the Lions Club), keep fit, a visit with food to Warren Mill Farm Park, papier mache crafts (decorating a tree for the Christmas Tree Festival), a Christmas party complete with magician.

We ran a stall at the Lions' May Fair to boost our funds, sent a coachload to the Bob Cook games in Swindon (a Lions event), enjoyed a garden party in Trehryngyll with music by Half Tide on a lovely summer's evening, and were given a wonderful concert by male choir 'Cor Meibion y Machlud'. In May, our helpers were honoured with a Service To the Community award from Cowbridge Town Council. The annual mystery coach trip in June was to the Brecon Beacons and then to Llancaiaach Fawr, with its enthralling tales of Tudor history.

This year has seen the opening of a second house in Cowbridge where some of our members are in supported living; four members now live independently in and around the town, with support, and this seems to work really well.

We welcome the enthusiastic help we have each month from some of the school's sixth formers, many of whom plan to undertake medical or nursing training. We could not cope without the transport help, and indeed all sorts of other support, from our local Lions' organisation. The Monday Club (supported by Mencap) is run entirely by volunteers and we constantly seek funding, so we are very grateful in this respect over the past year to Cowbridge United Charities, Cowbridge Town Council, the Masonic Emerald Lodge, and the Rotary and Lions organisations.

This year, we are one of three local organisations chosen for some Co-op funding next autumn (if people nominate us when they buy Co-op products!).

We keep trying to spread the word about our club. Although we have never been short of members, it is so important that families and carers know of our existence. Please everyone, take an interest in us, and do get in touch if you can offer any help.

Nelson and Lady Emma at Barry Men's Forum

AT this week's meeting of Forum our guest was the television presenter Trevor Fishlock, who gave the 40 members an account of Horatio Nelson and his love affair with Lady Emma Hamilton.

Nelson met up with Emma in 1793 at Naples where her husband Sir William Hamilton was serving at the British Embassy. Emma was seven years younger than Horatio, but by 1798 they developed a very close relationship. Nelson's naval career took him to Egypt, France, and Denmark fighting battles. Following his death Emma applied for financial help from the government, but this was declined and she died penniless in January 1815, a few months short of her 50th birthday.

Nelson's daughter with Emma, named Horatia, married a clergyman and had 10 children, having settled at Nelson's ancestral home in Norfolk.

Forum meet every Thursday at 9.45am in the hall of Holy Trinity Church, Aberystwyth Crescent, Barry. Further information from Mac Tanner on 01446 743455. Paul Gilbertson.

Great Big Daffodil hits the road again!

Behind every daffodil, there's a story – and following the success of last year's inaugural tour, the Great Big Daffodil will be on the road again this March, bringing people together to share the stories of their loved ones.

It's a sad fact that we don't have enough chances in life to stop and pay tribute to the people that are special to us – both the loved ones we've lost and those that are still here.

So, during the Great Daffodil Appeal 2020, once again we'd like to invite you to write the story behind your daffodil pin on the Great Big Daffodil's giant petals when it comes to your nearest city.

This year the Great Big Daffodil is visiting eight towns and cities across the UK, and it will be in south Wales on three dates:

Thursday, February 27, 9am–5.30pm, Cwmbran Shopping Centre, NP44 1PB;

Friday, February 28, 9.30am–8pm and Saturday, February 29, 9.30am–7pm – Cardiff – St David's Shopping Centre, CF10 2EF

We hope you will join us to share your tributes, memories and photos of a loved one or a special moment from their end of life on the petals of our seven-foot Great Big Daffodil. You'll also have the chance to donate and receive one of our iconic daffodil pins. By donating and wearing a daffodil pin you will be paying tribute to a loved one as well as helping Marie Curie provide the best possible end of life experience for people living with a terminal illness and their families.

If you're not able to join us on the tour, you can still take part by sharing your personal pictures and heartfelt messages on social media and tagging @mariecurieuk.

As the UK's leading charity for people living with a terminal illness, we hope the Great Big Daffodil will create somewhere for people to take a moment to reflect and remember and pay tribute to those that have been special to them.

By encouraging the public to share their memories, we want to create a national picture of the moments that matter most during the end of life. At the end of the tour, these will then be curated and added to this page – so remember to check back when the tour is finished.

AM hosts launch of charity's 2020 appeal

ON February 5, Vale AM Jane Hutt hosted the launch of the Marie Curie Great Daffodil Appeal in the Senedd.

Marie Curie raises over a quarter of a million pounds each year in Wales through the Daffodil Appeal and every penny raised in Wales stays in Wales. Jane also paid tribute to Sam Clements from the Vale of Glamorgan, who recently won a national award for the exceptional care he provides to those living with terminal illness.

Jane Hutt said: "It was wonderful to be able to host the launch again this year, now my eighth year of hosting! The work Marie Curie does is incredibly important and it is great to be able to see the efforts of all the staff and volunteers.

"It was also great to be joined by members of the Barry and District Soroptimists on the day."

NEWS FROM LOCAL CLUBS AND SOCIETIES

Stand-in speaker at Probus Club of Penarth

THE Probus Club of Penarth met on February 18 when one of the members, Colin Evans, stood in at very short notice in the absence of the planned guest speaker.

Colin spoke in a very interesting and jovial manner about his experience of National Service in the RAF during the late 1950s, when he was posted as an officer to the Innsworth Station in Gloucestershire. As a member of the station rugby team, they won the RAF Cup on two successive years. During the three years he served in the RAF, he got married and enjoyed a very pleasant services lifestyle. His talk was very much appreciated by all the club members.

The club will hold its Annual General Meeting on Tuesday, March 17 followed by a talk by Trevor Fishlock entitled: 'Horatio's Holiday'; and then a lunch at the Seashore Grill in Sully.

New members are always welcome to join Penarth Probus, which is open to retired and semi-retired men of any age. The meetings are held every third Tuesday of the month at the Sports and Social Club, South Road, Sully at 10.30am with guest speakers on varied topics. Light refreshments are provided and meetings finish before 12 noon. There are occasional visits to places of interest and lunches at various times of the year. Anyone interested in joining Probus should contact Gareth Price on 02920 532 793.

It's all Chinese to members of Cowbridge U3A

GEOFF Henderson of Porthcawl U3A visited Cowbridge U3A recently, to give a presentation on the Chinese way of life and behaviour, concentrating on the factors which have influenced China over the last two centuries.

The country has a long history of invention (the oldest written language, gunpowder, even the wheelbarrow), philosophy and trade. In 1830, China was responsible for 30% of the world's cumulative gross domestic product (GDP), exporting tea, silk, porcelain and textiles mainly in return for silver bullion.

Next meeting will feature a talk entitled: 'A Foreign Student's World', by UWC students, at 2pm on Wednesday, March 11 in Cowbridge Town Hall. Visitors welcome; there is a small fee, which includes refreshments. www.u3asites.org.uk/cowbridge.

St Donat's Memory Café

ST Donat's Memory Café is a dementia café that is hosted on the Atlantic College grounds.

Free of charge, as it is funded by Atlantic College it is primarily student run, but is also supervised by the college's staff, and was inspired by the students' own experiences. Sindre Carlsen, the main organiser has said that he, together with his fellow students, want to be 'a light in the day for people who may share some of the same experiences as our own family members.'

St Donat's Memory Café has now been up and running since last autumn and has been very successful with participants from Llantwit, Cowbridge and St. Donat's. It is serving as a social arena for people with dementia and their carers, and encourages everyone to: 'Come along to chat over some coffee, tea, cakes and lighthearted entertainment!'

The cafe has a different theme for each session, and past sessions include a Norwegian waffle event, Beatles sing-along and arts and crafts. The cafe allows people with dementia to continue with activities they love and 'regulars' have described the cafe as a fun place with many nice people.

One of the volunteers, Daniel Faradonbel said: "We aim to make a positive change in this community, and truly believe that we can help even more people than we already have. The cafe runs from 2.30pm to 3.30pm on the first and third Wednesday of every month, so meet at the Atlantic College reception at 2.30pm for a good time!"

If you're interested or have any inquiries, you can find the Cafe on Facebook: St Donat's Memory Café. Alternatively, contact the cafe organiser, Sindre, at: sindre.carlsen@gmail.com.

Cadet Warrant Officer James Jelinski retires

CADET Warrant Officer James Jelinski (20) of 372 (Barry) Squadron recently retired as an Air Cadet after seven action-packed years with the Royal Air Force Air Cadets.

James has risen through the ranks to the highest rank of Cadet Warrant Officer, and his career has included flying in military aircraft, gliding, sport, shooting, expeditions, leadership courses, adventurous training, attending camps in the UK and overseas as well as fundraising for the Royal Air Forces Association and numerous other community organisations.

The highlight of James's career was successfully completing the 100-mile, four day Nijmegen March in the Netherlands while carrying 10 kilograms of equipment, and his appointment as Lord Lieutenant's Cadet in 2019. James said: "I have really enjoyed my ATC career. I would encourage all the air cadets to grasp the amazing opportunities which are available to them, especially on such a busy squadron. I am looking forward to becoming an adult instructor and giving something back to the next generation of Air Cadets."

Squadron Leader Jason Horton, Commanding Officer 372 Squadron, paid tribute to James for his years of dedicated service to the Squadron saying: "James has risen to the challenges available to him; he has worked hard and gained many new skills, experiences and confidence which will stand him in good stead for the future. I am looking forward to James becoming an instructor and passing on his skills and knowledge to my air cadets."

The Air Cadets are now looking forward to an action-packed training programme including flying, gliding, shooting, adventurous training, sports, field craft training, the Duke of Edinburgh Award Scheme, summer camps, air shows and overseas visits.

If you have a spirit for adventure, 372 (Barry) Squadron has vacancies for boys and girls between 12 (in school year 8) - 17 years old. The Squadron parade on Mondays and Wednesdays 7pm - 9.30pm, behind Adams Funeral Parlour; for more information about joining or the Royal Air Force Air Cadets email oc.372@aircadets.org or visit www.372squadron.org.uk.

Retired health worker recognised for charity work in East African town

A RETIRED health worker has been recognised for her development work in East Africa.

Deana Owen, from Bridgend, received an award from the Bridgend Association of Volunteer Organisations (BAVO) for her "outstanding" work in Zambia which was presented to her by Ogmore AM Huw Irranca-Davies.

Deana was given the award for her work in the Monze area of Zambia at an official ceremony at the Heronston Hotel in Bridgend at the end of last year.

The 73-year-old said: "When I retired in 2011, I had no idea what I would do with my time but the decision was taken out of my hands when I revisited the Monze area of Southern Zambia where I had worked as a young nurse."

"I saw children, many AIDS orphans and they were all very poor.

Seven schools have been built and equipped which were fully funded by the charity – they are now providing education for 2,000 children.

However, due to the disastrous effects of climate change there were

Writers' circle members make their debut on Radio Wales

MEMBERS of Llantwit Major Writing Circle recently made their radio debut when BBC Wales came to visit them at their base in the town.

The group's founder, Kath Giblin, told The GEM: "Radio Wales got in touch and came along to meet the group at the Heritage Centre, in Llantwit Major Town Hall a week before Valentine's Day.

"The members, who are all local to Llantwit, were invited to talk about their love of writing and to share some of the beautiful love poems they had composed. The recording was then featured on Royal Noble's Valentine's special on Sunday, February 9.

"It was such a great programme. Everyone sounded so professional and it was beautifully edited."

She continued: "At our next meeting on Wednesday, February 26, we are very lucky to be joined by the popular children's writer, Jon Blake, author of over 60 books.

"Jon was featured in 'Wales on Sunday' last weekend and his latest Thimble Monkey Super Star book 'Thimble Wonka Bonkers' has been chosen as Welsh Libraries Book of the Month. "We very much look forward to hearing tips from Jon on how to be a successful writer.

"Anyone interested in taking up the pen is welcome to join our group and can get in touch via our Facebook page 'Llantwit Major Writing Circle' or they can contact me at kath_giblin@hotmail.com (Numbers are limited due to the size of the venue, so please get in touch if you want to join us)."

History open day

ALL are welcome to the Bonvilston history open day at the Reading Room on Saturday, February 29.

Starting at 10.30am there will be a display of photographs, together with projected images from the collection.

A re-organized Tithe map will be available to view and there will be a facility to search a range of local records.

Refreshments will be available all day with soup served from noon. All funds raised will be in aid of St Mary's Church Tower, which is very much in need of restoration.

We will be forming a local history group so if anyone is interested in joining please do come along.

More information can be found on the Bonvilston Village Facebook page and on the village website.

Social contact in Highlight Park

If you know someone living alone who might enjoy a little company, please let them know the dates of the Highlight Park Cuppa.

Men and women are welcome, because everyone can feel they need a little company now and again no matter where they live. Don't be shy, we will make you welcome.

Our regulars enjoy chatting and look forward to completing a quiz sheet, having a cuppa and company; we are reserving a 'men's table' where men can meet regularly, chat, play cards; don't stay at home alone – come and join us.

Men might find they have common interests and meet with us regularly, or in time develop a local men's network or club!

Women may wish to join our local Women's Institute – you are all very welcome.

Highlight Park Cuppa opening times: we're open every second and fourth Monday of the month at Highlight Park Community Centre, Stirling Road, Barry (next door to Tesco) 2.30pm - 3.30pm February 24 and March 9. If you have any queries, contact Ada, group coordinator on 01446 722412.

KPC Youth & Community are holding their annual charity Golf Day on Friday, June 26 at the Grove Golf Club, Porthcawl.

Entry includes coffee on arrival, golf fees and a buffet meal following the round of golf, and to be part of our prize presentation. We still have tee-offs available from 10am - 2pm – so please come along for a great day's golf and the chance to support a local charity!

Sponsorship is also sought for raffle/auction prizes or £50 to sponsor a hole; if you can support us that would be really appreciated. For team entry forms/more details contact Alison on 01656 749219;

Get your garden working for the environment

With Annie Paine

PLANT Llantwit's new monthly column aims to help GEM readers towards 'greener' gardening.

Whether you have a large garden or a couple of tubs, you can do your bit to increase biodiversity and lower your carbon footprint.

People call rainforests the "lungs" of our planet, but right here in the Vale we can surround ourselves with plants that produce vital oxygen, while slurping up carbon dioxide.

This can be in our gardens, inside our homes, or you could join Plant Llantwit's tree-planting events in shared spaces.

We'll be sharing money-saving and labour-saving tips – because wildlife often benefits when we do less! Neglected gardens, full of brambles and nettles, may teem with birds, frogs, butterflies and hedgehogs, while manicured lawns and neat borders can be wildlife no-go areas.

So this column aims to encourage gardens we can enjoy, while making them welcoming spaces for our fellow-creatures!

Let's start with some

cipes:

Don't be too tidy.

Living things need somewhere to live, feed, and breed, so – make a log-pile, leave some leaves in a corner, and let some of your dandelions flower, to feed the bees.

Plant a wide variety of flowers for pollinators, food plants for butterflies and moths, seeds and berries for birds.

Avoid pesticides and herbicides. For future generations to enjoy the wildlife that we grew up with, encourage friendly beasts, that in turn discourage foes. Children will love exploring the mini-beasts among the plants and soil. And ultimately human life depends on the biodiversity that we are rapidly destroying.

Compost as much as possible.

Share and swap seeds and plants with friends and neighbours, so you'll be growing plants that suit our local climate and soil.

Avoid digging: small critters in the soil need air spaces and drainage, and not being chopped up. Let the earthworms do all the hard work of turning over the soil!

Buy peat-free compost. Destroying peat-bogs not only harms valuable habitats, but also causes enormous amounts of carbon dioxide to be released.

Learn to save seeds and take cuttings from your favourite plants – so much cheaper than visiting garden centres.

Grow some food! Even if it's just herbs on a sunny windowsill, sprouting seeds, or a beautiful Rosemary in a tub by your door, it all saves food miles, and improves your meals.

All these points will be covered and expanded in future articles.

Meanwhile, some topical tips for February and early March:

Cold, wet and windy days are perfect for planning ahead and ordering seeds from a really good company like The Real Seed Company.

Prune autumn-fruiting raspberry canes back to soil level.

Sow winter salads, such as Mizuna.

If you have made compost, spread it on growing spaces, so that the earthworms can incorporate it into the soil.

Cover with plastic or old carpet to warm the soil and reduce weeds, till you're ready to sow.

Fill a birdbath (or tray) with clean water, for birds to drink and bathe, especially if the weather freezes. Keep bird-feeders topped up, as the birds will depend on them.

Finally: get a good com-book from the library, or order from Nickleby's: 'Grow Your Own Vegetables' by Joy Larkcom is recommended. Formed by local people in response to the growing global climate emergency, Plant Llantwit is aiming to plant more trees, hedgerows and other plants in Llantwit Major and surrounding area. For more information and membership (adults £1, under-16s free), visit Plant Llantwit on Facebook or email plantllantwit@gmail.com.

Vale wedding venue is up for an award

A VALE wedding venue, Fonmon Castle, is a finalist in the Welsh Wedding Awards 2020.

The winner was due to be announced at a ceremony at The Exchange Hotel in Cardiff, which took place just after The GEM went to press.

Among the categories are: Wedding Venue of the Year, Caterer of the Year, Photographer of the Year, and Specialist Wedding Supplier of the Year.

Fonmon Castle Limited is a finalist in the regional Wedding Venue of the Year category. The castle changed ownership last January and is now in the care of Nigel Ford and family who are currently making many renovations and restorations to maintain the 12th Century Grade I listed castle – one of only a few castles in Wales that are still be lived in.

Some of the works include a new roof, re-instating chimneys and opening a tower as part of the castle tours.

Other investments at the 340-acre historic estate include a re-wilding project of the land, construction of a family attraction in the form of a dino park with nature trail, forest camp school and medieval farm and grange with live animals and re-enactments from actor Ross O'Hennessy and team. The castle is busily preparing for its Wedding Venue Showcase on Saturday, March 21 to launch its brand-new Wedding

Village and Orchard Tipi for weddings and events, followed by a Grand Opening and Joust on Easter Weekend, Sunday, April 12, and Monday, April 13, for its Medieval Farm and Grange.

Further details of all events are available on their website: fonmoncastle.com

Gaynor Openshaw, The castle's sales and events manager, said: "We are absolutely delighted to have been nominated for Wedding Venue of the Year in our region and please can we thank all the lovely couples that voted for us."

"We are extremely honoured and hope to win this category as we endeavour to become the leading South Wales Wedding Venue for many years to come."

Guide dog training in Bridgend

LAST week's GEM gave details of a free training session in Bridgend on March 4 for family and friends living with sight loss, organised by Guide Dogs Cymru.

However, a typo may have given the wrong impression of the day. The phrase, 'please come along' appeared as 'please come alone'.

The GEM would like to emphasise that the session is for groups of family and friends.

Guide Dogs Cymru said the training session is for people who are looking to be able to guide a loved one with sight problems "safely and confidently".

The interactive session, which will take place at Evergreen Hall, March 4, at 2pm to 4pm, in the town, is designed to give people a better awareness of sight loss, as well as tips on the correct way to support a vision impaired person.

'Out of the strong, came forth sweetness' for Llantwit Boy's Brigade

THE youngest members of 2nd Llantwit Major Boys' Brigade, the Anchors, spent a busy evening discussing the story of Samson.

They now know why there is a picture of a lion and bees on a tin of golden syrup, and enjoyed making corn-flake cakes!

The Anchors and Juniors will take a break for half term this week, but four members of Company Section are off to Gloucester on Saturday for the England/Wales final of Masterteam (the national quiz competition).

The winner will travel to Ireland in April for the National Final. Good luck to Morgan, Luke, Ciaran and Gabe!

Calls for action over crumbling roads

SOUTH Wales Central AM and Rhoose councillor Andrew RT Davies has called for action after serious deterioration of roads through Llancarfan.

The state of the road running from Pancross Farm to the A48 has grown increasingly worse over recent months, with many vehicles using it as a route to and from Cardiff Airport; the road also saw an increase in traffic during the Five Mile Lane closures, as drivers used it as a diversion. This week he met residents and has requested a site visit with the Cabinet Member responsible to assess the conditions.

"The road through Llancarfan is in an exceptionally poor state, to the extent that it is posing a safety risk to motorists. To give them credit, the council have undertaken works to address the problem, but there are still several potholes that need to be repaired.

"After meeting with residents and assessing the current state of the road, it is clear further improvements are required, and I have requested a site visit with the Cabinet Member for Highways to press for further remedial action."

Council makes plans to cope with grass growing all year round

THE Vale Council says that milder winters mean that grass will need to be cut more often.

However, a council spokesperson said that it would be done at no extra cost due to a 'community benefit' agreement with the contractors.

A Vale Council spokesperson said: "There are 27 playparks in the Vale that will benefit from additional grass cutting during the winter, thanks to the community benefit agreement.

"Countrywide Grounds Maintenance currently undertake the council's amenity grass-cutting. As part of their contract, they have pledged to offer staff and machinery free of charge to help maintain the playpark grounds during the off-season.

"This will ensure that the sites are still usable for families and children throughout the winter."

The council says that milder climates mean that grass no longer stops growing during the winter. However, council resources traditionally limit the grass-cutting season to between March and October.

The Community Benefit scheme ensures that any contract put out by the council asks for any 'added value' that the contract would bring to the authority and community, above the basic work that is being undertaken.

The cabinet member for neighbourhood services and transport, Cllr Peter King, said: "The service that Countrywide provide is a valuable addition to the year round work our parks team undertakes and we are incredibly grateful to them.

"Many of our parks have benefited from state-of-the-art upgrades in recent years, and the service will help ensure that these green spaces can be enjoyed all year round."

Busy time for National Coastwatch Institution

DURING January, the National Coastwatch Institution dealt with two logged incidents and monitored a further nine.

The group logged a total of 349 vessels and 592 volunteer watchkeeping hours were undertaken.

On February 7 NCI participated in a live 'wet winching' exercise with Coastguard Helicopter 187 off the pier at Porthcawl. This involved dropping a winch man into the water, detaching from the helicopter winch line, the helicopter flying off and returning to recover.

The group's role in the exercise was to provide a constant visual on the person in the water, in case the helicopter is called away to another incident, until the RNLI completes the rescue.

A spokesman said: "This is excellent training for us and helps develop our skills. Thanks to the team at Bristow St Athan for their support.

"Storm Ciara arrived on February 9 and the expected high tides and winds resulted in some spectacular waves; we monitored the many photographers and sightseers to ensure their safety. The Fairy buoy, just offshore, was a casualty of the storm, having moved position. All relevant parties were made aware and its position is being monitored."

Residents 'unsure' speed limit is making a difference

RESIDENTS said they have "not seen any difference" in their village since the speed limit on its main road was changed.

The main road through Pontyclun was reduced from a 30 miles per hour zone to a 20mph zone just before Christmas.

The stretch of the A4222 (also known as Cowbridge Road) which is 20mph is from Station Crescent, the junction for the train station, and it finishes just after the junction of Pontyclun Primary School.

However, residents are unsure the new speed limit is truly making a difference in the area, which experiences slow traffic.

As well as the usual rush-hour crawl, it is also affected by the drop-off and pick-up of pupils at the two schools which are either end of Pontyclun – Y Pant Comprehensive and the primary school.

Shoppers at The Community Shop said drivers in the village, which has limited parking facilities, struggle to reach 20mph most days when it's busy.

One shopper said: "The joke around here is that you're lucky if you can get up to 20mph. I think it's a waste of time because you've got so many crossings in the village, there's one this end and one that end, and there's the bit in the middle. What they should have done is made one side parking only to slow the traffic down."

A fellow shopper added: "It's typical, we've not seen any difference in how people have been driving. They have put cameras up by the speed limit signs as well, by The Windsor and down by the cemetary."

A local shop owner said she believes people are trying to stick to the new limit as she can hear the cars speeding up as they pass the signs located outside her shop.

Jenny Watts, one of the owners of Ammonite Yarns, said: "It's a good idea but it can't be regulated because there's no speed cameras or anything in place.

"I can hear people speeding up as they get to the sign because it's near my shop, so they're not going over 30mph while they're in the village. I actually think the 20mph might be aspirational. I can't say I've noticed any real difference."

The new speed limit has been in place since December, last year – it is not known whether the timing is related to the death of a 76-year-old woman following a crash near The Windsor pub on November 30.

It is understood the change had been previously planned, along with the relocation of the Tesco bus stop to the Masonic Hall and new CCTV near the speed signs.

In October of 2018, residents received a letter from RCT saying funding had been secured from the Welsh Government to introduce a Safe Routes In the Community scheme (SRIC) which was developed with the aim of introducing the new speed limit.

The scheme, which residents were invited to comment on at the time, also proposed the introduction of School Keep Clear markings on Heol Y Felin.

RCT were contacted for more information but failed to respond in time before going to print.

The new 20mph speed limit signs near Station Crescent in Pontyclun. A police appeal sign is visible following the accident in November, along with the new CCTV cameras by the pub in the background.

Bridge club hosts its main social event of the year

THE Porthcawl Duplicate Bridge Club held its main social event of the year on February 6 – the Meskin Bowl (handicap) winners Winnie and Beth, and the Meskin Cup (scratch) winners Trish and Margaret.

The event was complemented by excellent cheese and wine provided by the club.

Latest results from the club are:

January 25: first, Trish Saunders and Terry Dolan; second (equal), John Cobby and Gerry Doak; Dil and Marian Evans.

January 30: first, Norma and David Newman; second, Roger Draper and Pat Haworth.

February 1: first, Bill Turner and Dave Lea; second, Emer Disley and Debbie Lea.

February 7 Meskin Bowl: Beth Davies and Winnie Phillips (handicap); Meskin Cup: Trish Saunders and Margaret Harris (scratch).

The club will now hold 'training seminars' on the third Saturday of each month, starting at 2.25pm prompt, prior to the afternoon session of play. The first seminar topic on February 15 will be 'Michaels Cue Bids' (two suited overcalls) presented by Tony; suitable for all standards of player. Visitors are most welcome.

The club meets twice a week at the Awel-y-Mor centre, Thursdays 6.45pm – 9.45pm and Saturdays 3.15 pm - 6.15 pm. Call our secretary Trish on 01656 785794.

Cheers! Welsh Beer Week announced

A COLLABORATION between Welsh independent breweries, wholesalers and distributors will see the first official Welsh Beer Week launch in pubs across the country on March 8.

This March, as the Six Nations Rugby Championship drives the nation to pubs and around living room TVs, Wales' brewers are joining forces to offer beer lovers the chance to support the home team at the pump as well as on the pitch.

Welsh Beer Week is organised by the Welsh Drinks Cluster's Beer and Cider Group, which works in partnership with independent Welsh brewers, retailers and wholesalers to promote the nation's success at producing world class products.

Speaking on behalf of the Welsh Drinks Cluster Beer & Cider Group, Cer Hayward said: "Wales has a proud history of producing high quality beers and ales. That legacy continues today as young breweries join our oldest brands to create and share those products with the world."

"Welsh Beer Week aims to give beer lovers across the country the chance to experience the true taste of Wales, to encourage them to join us in asking more pubs, bars and shops to stock Welsh ales and beer.

"You don't need to be an aficionado to appreciate the exceptional drinks we produce. Your new favourite pint could well be from a local brewery and we hope Welsh Beer Week helps you find it."

Pam and Russ Honeyman own Monty's Brewery in Montgomery. Commenting on the official launch, Pam said: "We believe that Welsh breweries deserve to be recognised for the exceptional quality of their beers and ales. Teams across the country are constantly securing some of the UK industry's top awards."

Russ Honeyman added: "The demand for locally sourced drinks has never been greater. Whether you prefer a traditional ale, or you're on a search for something totally new, we're confident Welsh Beer Week will help you find it."

Welsh Beer Week aims to help customers discover exceptional breweries that are right on their doorstep. Sean Murphy is a director at the Vale of Glamorgan Brewery and the managing director of the independent pub group, Knife and Fork. "Speaking on behalf of a Welsh brewery I'm probably biased, but I think it's fair to say that Wales is producing some of the best beer available from the UK. Young Welsh brewers in particular are showing that they are not afraid to push the boundaries when it comes to creating beers that truly set them apart from the rest. Those looking for quality and personality in their choice of beverage will have an array of premium options to choose from."

Some of the UK's leading pub edge of locally brewed beer. The drinks chains have supported the campaign to celebrate the nations brewers. That includes Ei Publican Partnerships, the leased and pub company, Ei Group, which owns or operates c4,000 pubs across England and Wales.

Nick Light of Ei Publican Partnerships, said: "With over 100 pubs within our Partnerships estate located in Wales, we are very proud to support Welsh Beer Week to enhance the profile and knowlsector in Wales comprises many innovative producers and we want to be a part of its growth".

Welsh Beer Week will officially launch across the country on March 8 and will run until March 14 to coincide with the final matches of the Six Nations Rugby Championship, which will see Wales face Scotland at the Principality Stadium. Those looking to discover Welsh beers and ales just need to look for taps and pumps at the bar sporting the official Welsh Beer Week logo.

A-Z of Brecon: Places, People, History

THE ancient town of Brecon is in the heart of one of Britain's most beautiful national parks, a place of contrasts and enigmas, and in an A-Z of Brecon, author Mal Morrison takes readers on a journey through the primary and lesser-known streets and thoroughfares.

Along the way the author recounts ancient and modern tales, and discovers something of the identity and heritage of Brecon. As the alphabet progresses there are stories of the invaders who settled there; the treasured saints, and the beloved poets and musicians. The author also reveals forgotten facts and anecdotes along the fascinating journeys.

Buildings, walls and bridges may give a town a character, and this well-illustrated book looks closely at these – but it is people who give it a heart, bringing it to life. Brecon has no shortage of fascinating residents, both living and departed and within its shadows lurk ghosts and hauntings.

All these stories and more are visited in the tour of this wonderful Welsh town.

'A-Z of Brecon Places-People-History' by Mal Morrison is published by Amberley Publishing at £14.99.

Albert youngsters take over Bro Radio!

PUPILS from Albert Primary School in Barry visited the town's YMCA centre recently to record a show on Bro Radio to promote their school.

One of the school's media monitors explained: "When we arrived at the YMCA, we were met by Gareth and Matt who took us up to the recording studio.

"We were shown around the studio and we began to record our links for the radio show; however, all the children said that it was embarrassing to hear their own voice!

"We also had to choose different songs that we would use in the show.

"We had already asked children and staff for certain songs that truly reflected our school. The show will be aired on February 29, and it will be incredible to hear ourselves on the radio!

"It was a really great experience and we would like to thank everyone at BroRadio and Mack Events for this opportunity."

Fundraising at the Sandville!

Gwyneth Poacher and her daughter Sian.

A TABLE top sale took place recently at Sandville Court, Ton Kenfig.

Sandville founder Gwyneth Poacher told The GEM: "We always look forward to the table top with lots friends and family popping in. This time there was a wonderful crowd of new faces.

"I had great pleasure in asking my very surprised daughter Sian of doing us the honour of declaring it open. Sian just happened to arrive as we were ready.

Leighton, Rose and Marcia looked after the refreshments.

She gave a short speech which made me feel very humble, and there were lots of cheers and claps from all.

"Everyone spent well and we had a very enjoyable afternoon. My sincere thanks go to all the volunteers who give up their time.

"As always the refreshments were very popular, with Leighton, Rose and Marcia looking after everyone. We made a profit of £913.31, which included Jacqui's superb raffle."

The table top sale is always 1st sat of the month.

Sandville's next table top sale is on March 7, 2.30-4pm.

AM joins disabled swimming club for its AGM

VALE AM Jane Hutt joined members of Barry Beavers for their AGM on February 5..

The club is growing and now has over 80 members, and did incredibly well at their galas this year, helping Wales to win the UK National Gala.

Jane Hutt said: "It was wonderful to join Barry Beavers for their AGM and I was pleased to be able to speak about all the hard work being done by the volunteers and congratulate everyone on their successes this year.

"It was also great to be able to pay tribute to the continued hard work of dedicated members like Pat Finch, who was this year recognised with a BEM in the Queen's New Year's Honours List."

Dewi Sant Festival

THE Dewi Sant Festival, in Barry between February 29 and March 1 is being brought to you by Holton Road Traders Association, Barry Shop Local and The Vale of Glamorgan Council and is a first for Barry.

A spokesperson said: "After our amazing Christmas event we're making the most of Barry being 'back on the map' and the Dewi Sant Festival will celebrate all things Welsh. It's on February 20, catered by Caesers Coffee Lounge.

"On stage we have school choirs, local bands and musicians, filling the days with beautiful music. The land of song will definitely bring you some fantastic musicians; we'll start Sunday, March 1 with the Welsh national anthem from the school choir.

"The event will have a large funfair, activities for families, face painting, food, drink, a stage with music, crafts, street entertainment and a lovely dragon... which we'll use to proximity."

Celebrating kindness

THE children of St Illtyd Primary School, Llantwit Major, celebrated an extra special day of kindness on February 14 after a recent visit from the 'School of Kindness', which supports the charity 52Lives in aiming to change someone's life every week of the year.

It is based on the simple premise that people are good, and lots of good people working together can achieve amazing things. Therefore, the children came up with the idea of doing an act of kindness for each other which could promote these values.

The children made pledges of kindness to each other which were carried out over the day. The teachers also made pledges, and the children helped their teachers. They even ran the awards assembly. Some of the more entrepreneurial children in year-5 made cakes to raise funds for the charity.

Headteacher Mr Hardy commented: "We have a lovely kind school anyway, but it was so nice to walk around and see the whole school going out of their way to be kind to others and raise money for the charity."

AM backs calls to save Wildlife Reserve

SOUTH Wales Central AM Andrew RT Davies has backed calls to safeguard the future of Aberthaw Wildlife Reserve.

The reserve is located at Aberthaw Power Station, and Mr Davies has been contacted by several residents, as well as the Rhoose and Aberthaw Wildlife campaign group, to express concerns about its future when the station closes.

He recently met station manager Will Jeffery and project development manager Fiona Auty (pictured above) to emphasise the need to retain the reserve on the site, and pressed for a positive resolution. The ash tip area on the site is also home to many species, including skylarks, partridges, kestrels, badgers and butterflies.

Mr Davies said: "Aberthaw Wildlife Reserve is a beacon for biodiversity in the area, and it is no surprise residents, as well as Rhoose and Aberthaw Wildlife, are so concerned about its future.

"It's vital we safeguard its future when the power station closes, and I am grateful to Will and Fiona for taking the time to meet. I emphasised the need to maintain the reserve long term, and pressed for a solution to be found."

Vale school plays its part in developing new Welsh education curriculum

ST Joseph's Primary School in Penarth has been working closely with Welsh Government on the creation of the new curriculum framework, soon to be rolled out in primary schools nationwide.

Schools will be required to design their own curriculum and assessment arrangements and, rather than following a nationally prescribed learning program, schools will be able to make decisions that best meet the needs of specific learners.

As well as contributing to the framework, St Joseph's has also introduced its own curriculum, and is one of only 16 Curriculum Innovation Schools in Wales.

The curriculum is based on findings in child development and cognitive science, with staff undertaking learning on how children's bodies and minds develop.

Lessons have been tailored to enhance pupils' personal, social and physical development, while providing a detailed knowledge and understanding of the world, both past and present. The school has also benefited from refurbishment of all classrooms, a complete reconfiguration of the Foundation Phase learning spaces and a state-of-the-art nursery. Wednesday, March. Parents are invited to visit the school at 10am, 2pm outside of the classroom, as the school's grounds and 4.30pm and slots can be booked via EventBrite: www.eventbrite.co.uk/.

orchard, wildflower meadow and polytunnel. The introduction of the school's ambitious new curriculum has seen standards improve year on year.

Last year's National Reading Tests saw the average child in St Joseph's score within the top 20 per cent of the country, with similarly high standards achieved in mathematics.

Headteacher Gareth Rein said: "We're extremely proud of our achievements at St Joseph's.

"Everything we do is based on the best available research and is designed to help each individual child thrive."

The Vale Council Cabinet Member for Education and Regeneration, Cllr Lis Burnett, said: "The new Curriculum for Wales is inspiring schools to take a more holistic approach toward learning. It encourages them to focus more on how and why the curriculum is being delivered, rather than delivering specific content and academic results.

"St Joseph's have done a brilliant job in helping craft this approach, and in turn have seen their own curriculum and learning practices blossom."

St Joseph's will host an Open Day on Wednesday, March. Parents are invited to visit the school at 10am, 2pm outside of the classroom, as the school's grounds and 4.30pm and slots can be booked via EventBrite: www.eventbrite.co.uk/.

Pontycymer's amazing art gallery puts on a brand new exhibition

IT is several years now since the artist Kevin Sinnott (pictured right) returned to the Garw Valley after years building an international reputation in London.

When he and his wife Sue made the decision to come home, they decided that, as well as making a home in the valley, they would create an art gallery too.

An old shop in Oxford Street, Pontycymer, was chosen and it was transformed, at considerable expense, into Studio 18, one of the most attractive galleries you will find.

The latest exhibition, with the snappy title of 'Every Home Should Surprise Itself and Hang the Biggest Painting It Can, Somewhere, Somehow', will run until March 7.

Recent exhibitions have showcased other local artists, as will the exhibition that is scheduled to follow this, but this one features Kevin's work.

In many ways, it reflects a period of creative energy that followed a tragic event.

Report by Philip Irwin

Sue became ill and Kevin nursed her until she sadly passed away.

In the exhibition notes, he says: "My strongest characteristic is that I can not stop, even in my darkest hours, when I nursed Sue, I managed to paint the series of large 'history' painting."

This exhibition shows that Kevin has continued to keep busy.

When it comes to hanging the biggest painting you can, there is no lack of choice, but Kevin's work is much in demand, so price may be a factor.

However, visiting Studio 18 is an end in itself.

It's a jewel in the Garw Valley.

The exhibition is open Thursday and Friday (2pm to 5pm) and Saturday (10am to 2pm), until March 7.

Studio 18 is at 18, Oxford Street, Pontycymer, CF32 8DB. For more information, telephone 01656 871019 (studio) or email mail@kevinsinnott.co.uk

DS 3 Crossback Prestige PureTech 155 Auto 8-speed Motors review by Tony Yates

A few weeks ago you might remember that I tested my first-ever EV – and you might remember me telling you how it was brilliant, and how I'm now a convert.

Well, I have now recovered and I'm back once again testing cars that have an actual combustion engine, which I was missing quite a lot actually. But now for this week's review of the DS 3 Crossback.

Power and Efficiency:

The DS 3 Crossback I had on test was powered by 3 cylinder 1199cc Euro 6.3 petrol engine with 114kW of power (155HP) and 240Nm of torque - which is a good starting point.

Fuel consumption comes in around 41 – 46 mpg combined (subject to how you drive) and CO2 emissions of around 114 – 128g/km (combined) and a respectable 0-62 time of around 8.2 seconds plus a max speed of 129mph.

On the road:

The DS 3 rides well and all the chassis components have been set up to keep you welded to the road ahead and feeling in total control.

Into the corners, it's smooth, and the suspension underneath does a great job of keeping it that way, no matter how demanding the road gets.

All this makes for a very relaxing drive – unlike my VW UP! GTI, which rattles my teeth out at every opportunity.

I would like to have had a bit more feedback from the steering, but the chassis more than makes up for this minor niggle. Maybe it's me, but the older I get - the more I want a car to be smooth and unfussy... unless you are 18, because then you want a car that can bounce you around like a tennis ball.

Interior and Technology

The seating does a great job of keeping you well supported, while the rear passenger legroom is adequate for most adults. Boot space is also good at 350litres (seats up) plus you get 40/60 split rear seats and a height-adjustable front seat.

The DS3 Crossback also benefits from: Hill Start Assist, front and rear parking sensors, ESP, tyre pressure sensors, EBS – lane-keeping assist, lane departure warning and speed recognition, security alarm, automatic lights and wipers, DS 3d LED rear lights, halogen headlights and dark tinted rear windows.

Plus, there are lots of cool things to keep you entertained for many hours such as: 10inch HD touchscreen, DAB digital radio with 8 speakers, Mirror Screen with Apple car play and Android Auto, DS Connect 3D Navigation and flush-fitting door handles that pop in and out. This feature alone is very cool – and I admit that I spent much of my time just locking and unlocking the DS 3 because it was so cool. I also drove around to all my friends' homes so I could get very excited explaining to them all about this very cool feature. Ok, I'm joking – but I had you going there for a minute!

To sum up: The DS 3 Crossback is a great car for any person looking for a family car that ticks all the boxes. I am going to give the DS 3 four stars in this test, because it really does deserve it.

Price: (from) £30,020 OTR - not including fitted options.

Young carers find their voices at fundraising concert for Barnardo's Cymru

A choir of remarkable children and young people who look after sick or disabled relatives will take centre stage next month when Barnardo's Cymru holds a fundraising concert.

The Merthyr Young Carers' Choir, whose members are aged between nine and 15, often have heavy responsibilities at home helping to look after parents or siblings; but every week they have a night off to sing their hearts out with the choir which meets in Dowlais.

On Monday, March 2 they will join more than 600 singers from 17 schools including young people from Bridgend, Barry and the Vale of Glamorgan at a fundraiser for the children's charity at St David's Hall, Cardiff. Money raised will go towards helping some of the area's most vulnerable children and families.

The concert was held for the first time last year and proved so popular with schools that it has returned for a second date with compere Stifyn Parri. The Merthyr Young Carers' Choir was set up by Barnardo's Cymru project worker Geraldine Maddison who runs respite sessions for the young people, funded by Merthyr Borough Council.

Geraldine said: "Singing is not just time away from caring, but it breaks down barriers and allows them to make new friends. For some it is the only socialising they are able to do. They realise they are not the only ones with caring responsibilities, it builds their confidence and has brought them some great opportunities."

For the Barnardo's Cymru concert, the young carers will be joining a massed choir singing some of their favourite songs including 'Everything is Awesome' from The Lego Movie, 'Hallelujah', the Welsh song 'Hafan Gobaith'. Alongside the choir will be performances from Cardiff's Rubicon Dance School. The concert will be conducted by Nia Llewelyn Jones and accompanied by organist Jonathan Hope, both from Gloucester Cathedral.

Tickets are priced between £8 and £17 and can be purchased directly from St David's Hall at www.stdavidshallcardiff.co.uk.

Local primary schools taking part are: Llansannor Church in Wales Primary, St David's Church in Wales, Colwinston and St Helen's RC, Barry.

How an ‘Upstairs Downstairs’ moment led to a Cowbridge cricket mutiny

ONE thing that non-sports fans miss, is that writing about any game involves a great deal of social history. The current travails at West Ham FC stem, in part, from moving from a small, ‘working class’ ground to a modern – but soul-less – super stadium.

In this fascinating piece, Jeff Bird, the chairman of Cowbridge Cricket club, recalled a time in the 1930s when the club made its own contribution to social history.

It appears that social class was the root of the problem then. Well, who would have thought it?

WINNING can be a bond amongst disparate groups of sportsmen formed into teams.

This was beautifully illustrated when the BBC’s Peter West once interviewed the Yorkshire batsman Doug Padgett and, in his best jolly good chaps way, he suggested to Padgett that for Yorkshire to have won three county championships in successive years, the team must have a wonderful team spirit.

After a long pause, Padgett replied no, it wasn’t true, in fact they didn’t much like each other but that they were all good players and that winning was what kept them together.

As they grew older and winning came less often the cracks appeared and the they all fell out.

Perhaps Hilaire Belloc came close to giving sport a more desirable context than winning being all by suggesting that ‘There’s nothing worth the wear of winning. But laughter and the love of friends’.

Had Boycott, Illingworth and the rest had a little bit of the Belloc view, who knows what they might have achieved.

In the 1930s, Cowbridge Cricket Club was a power in club cricket. Test and county cricketers appeared on a regular basis and losses were hardly ever entered in the scorebooks by the Miss Russells.

The Second XI also enjoyed success, if anything being statistically even more successful than the Firsts. Winning was important and it kept up an illusion of harmony which would turn out to be a dangerous one.

Cowbridge ran three teams, a First, Second and Midweek XI, the latter taking advantage of early closing in the town on a Wednesday which allowed shopkeepers to play. While the Wednesday XI brought together the members of both the other two XIs, it was obvious to everyone then, and not difficult to work out now, that there was a clear division between the teams on a social basis.

The First XI seems to have a strong public school influence. The members were at the very least professional gentlemen. It seems that some were men who had retained a superior vision of their station in life and that they failed to get along with those whom they regarded as their social inferiors is no surprise.

To the disappointment of those with ambition, this attitude seemed to creep into the subjective waters of team selection.

As for the printers, the ironmongers, the railway workers and the librarian who were the core of the Second XI, it is not hard to imagine a sense that they felt this was not the way it should be.

Years later the doyen of Cowbridge cricket, Colin Adams was unusually adamant in his view that two players at least played a good deal more Second XI cricket than their talents would have suggested – nay belied should have been the case.

The two in question were Bruce Bird, an ironmonger and wicket-keeper whose combative style might have been a bit rich for the Firsts, and Ted Lewis a railwayman who probably took more wickets than anyone else has done for the club.

Colin Adams believed that these two could have played first class cricket. Bruce was also the man who led the fundraising to bring county cricket to Cowbridge and was at the heart of committee activities.

Nobody could claim this was anything but a complex situation.

So against this background of social tension came the inevitable spark that ignited an explosion that would cause a great schism within the club.

The facts, as relayed by word of mouth, were that a Midweek XI went to play at a country house venue in the Llanelli area. That venue remains unknown but this was no ordinary fixture as it involved a morning start and a lunch interval.

This was when the trouble started. When time came for the break for lunch, the hosts invited those from Cowbridge who they considered their social equals to dine with them upstairs, while the rest of the team were consigned to eat downstairs with the staff.

Why the Cowbridge invitees to the upstairs did not suggest that such an arrangement would not do is unclear. Perhaps they felt embarrassed, perhaps they failed to see that it would be seen as an insult.

Whatever the situation, it was taken to be one by the downstairs diners. They were not going to complete the game under such circumstances. When the time came to restart, the rest of the Cowbridge team were probably past Morriston on their way home.

The fall out was sad. A number of stalwarts, having felt slighted, left the club to play elsewhere. Despite the devastation of such a public falling out, all that was officially recorded was an entry in the Minute Book to the effect that there would only be one XI in 1936.

It would take time and eventually some acceptance that both sides in this sad event had the ability but lacked the will to have avoided the rumpus at lunch and might have managed the fall out better.

It remained a complex affair. Of the players, Neil Brown continued to play, his twin Alan preferred not to.

A couple went to Miskin, another to St Fagans. And all the while in his deadliest form was the Sydney Barnes of Cowbridge, Ted Lewis who, given the chance proved equally as effective at First XI level as he had done in the Seconds.

By the time Cowbridge put out a Second XI again, a world war had taken place and Clement Attlee was Prime Minister.

The General Election of 1946 had been a seminal moment in British history.

“We are the masters now” proclaimed Hartly Shawcross. It was a very different world socially in which Cowbridge Cricket Club and the country at large would seek to restore itself from the country house mutiny. When that happened there would be laughter and friendships and that is what sport is about.

Ciara doesn't deter the St Mary's seniors

STORM Ciara left overnight rain, and more several days' legacy of strong, gusting winds and bitterly cold temperatures; the hostile conditions, however, did not deter the 18 members of St Mary's senior section, who teed off in a Stableford competition.

Their only concession to the weather was a decision to leave out the longest two holes and play a reduced course. It was a tribute to the green-keeping staff that, despite the weather, the fairways were in good condition and the greens were running well.

In-form former captain Hugh Williams, who was just pipped at the post the previous week on count-back, was promoted to a clear win this week with a three better than par score of 35 points. Trefor Jones' 31 secured second place.

Two days later, in a brief respite from the winds before Storm Dennis rolled in, the section's second competition of the week was another individual Stableford. With heavy

Barry Veterans teams march on in Cups and Leagues

BARRY Town Vets over-60s stayed on top of the Wales Veterans over-60s League after recording their second 3-0 win in succession, comfortably defeating Merthyr Tydfil at Ystrad Mynach Centre for Sport.

Barry dominated the first half with Huish and Price taking control of the middle of the park and Staddon and Crothers galloping down the flanks, putting Merthyr under intense pressure.

Bobbett, remarkably playing his second full match of the day, and Morgan terrorised the opposition defence and inevitably it was the former who slotted home to give his side a deserved lead.

Barry continued to pepper the visitors' goal – Huish hit a post, and Bobbett and Morgan were denied only by the alert Merthyr glove-man. However, it was only a matter of time until they extended their lead – courtesy of a fine right-footed strike by Staddon. He repeated the feat minutes later to make his team 3–0 up at the break.

During the interval, the tireless Morgan was replaced by 70-year-old 'Town' legend Batt, whilst Taylor was replaced by Eveleigh. Barry were happy to ease back in the second period and as a result became more disordered, so although they still created several opportunities to extend their lead, they also allowed Merthyr to attack on the break. Unfortunately, they found Brown in imperious form and when Barry keeper Orpin was finally called into action he was up to the task, safely smothering a goal-bound effort and ensuring his team maintained their three-goal buffer and stayed unbeaten this term.

Barry Town Vets over-55s progressed into the Wales Veterans over-55s Cup Final... but didn't have it all their own way!

Barry, shorn of several key players, faced qualifying group rivals Swansea at a blustery Penyheol Sports Centre, acutely aware that they would have to lose the game by four clear goals to allow their opponents to 'leap-frog' them into the final.

In a scrappy opening, exacerbated by the strong wind, Swansea were dangerous, but Averies, M Jones and Gibbins were defiant and, in fact, neither keeper was tested in the opening exchanges. Agonisingly, on 20 minutes a rare blunder by Barry stopper J Jones gifted the hosts a fortunate lead. He redeemed himself minutes later with a spectacular penalty save as the hosts exerted pressure.

This incident jolted Barry into a response and they too had a period of superiority with Jones, Averies and man-of-the-match Gibbins' accurate cross-field passes causing problems for the Swans defence, but a series of superb saves from Swansea glove-man Meecham, along with some imprecise finishing, prevented the visitors from gaining parity before half-time.

During the interval, manager Hill called for calmness and discipline... but five minutes after the re-start a loose pass by Marshall was seized upon by the hard-working Swans midfield and they took an unlikely 2–0 lead.

In a fiercely competitive last 30 minutes, Barry lost shape and restraint, pouring forward often at the expense of defensive responsibilities. They did create several gilt-edged chances which Bobbett, Welsh, Gibbins and Averies should have converted, but a more pragmatic approach would likely have borne more fruit – and certainly less anxiety!

In a below-par performance, Barry still created enough opportunities to win and progressed 'comfortably' to the final at Jenner Park on May 10, where they will face south east Wales rivals, Newport.

Barry Vets over-50s travelled to Bridgend to face a high-flying Penybont team and came away with an excellent three points.

Barry stuck to the back three formation which saw them progress to the semi-final of the over 50s cup, with Sims, Averies and Murray playing in front of keeper Harding and given the tough task of keeping Penybont's habitual handful Vince Lewis quiet for 80 minutes! This formation allowed the midfield of Dupuy, Liligreen, Taylor, Sullivan and 'orchestrator' James, to dictate proceedings and support strikers Fredriksen and Bobbett in tormenting their adversaries.

They subsequently took a two-goal lead into half time, courtesy of a crisp finish from Taylor and a pile-driver from the excellent Liligreen.

During the break, stand-in managers Averies and Marshall called for much of the same in the second period, albeit this was under threat within minutes when Penybont pulled a goal back when a controversial penalty, awarded against Averies, was converted.

Thankfully, any nerves were immediately removed when Bobbett restored the two goal buffer with his usual dexterity. In a resolute team performance even the customary injuries did not impact unduly, Marshall providing much needed calmness, but Harding was colossal between the sticks, making one brilliant save to deny the home side a share of the spoils.

Under-15s in Cup triumph

FOLLOWING two postponements due to the bad weather, Maesteg Celtic finally played the quarter final of the Ospreys Cup (under-15s).

While the neutral venue at Ysgol Cwm Brambil, Port Talbot was indeed a fabulous facility with its 4G surface, the weather, with the rain and wind at its most fierce, made conditions very difficult for players and spectators alike.

The original referee cried off on the day and the replacement was understandably delayed. Unfortunately, it meant all players and spectators were left to face the elements for at least half an hour, but all were grateful that the game could proceed.

Celtic, as last season's losing finalists, were looking for revenge and started with a bang. Playing with the wind they stormed into the lead with an excellent individual try from centre Morgan Davies, converted by No 10 George Richards.

Celtic started to dominate play, with the pack well led by captain James Williams, along with Dylan James, Chris Pound, Ioan Williams, Jackson Treloar and Danny Wilson. Half backs Gorge Richards and Liam Wyatt used the wind cleverly. Following neat inter-passing among the forwards, hooker Chris Pound burst through to score under the posts for George Richards to convert.

Baglan were getting a bigger share of possession, but the Celtic backs, with Rhys Cahill, Corry Thomas and Morgan Davies, were still causing problems.

Baglan were eventually rewarded with two late converted tries, which made the score look more respectable, but overall it was a very impressive performance, and the team can look forward to the semi with confidence.

The final score was Celtic 29 – 14 Baglan. KS

Storm Dennis 1 – rugby 0 as games are off

STORM Dennis took its toll last weekend as many fixtures, including Cowbridge RFC's fixture against Llantwit Fardre, were called off.

There were upsetting scenes of flooding in many areas.

Cowbridge are next in league action on February 29, taking on Llantrisant at home. Then on March 21, away at Treherri, both key games after three narrow losses. All available players are needed, with some hopefully returning from injury. We continue to send best wishes to David Popham after his nasty injury.

We will need to rearrange some of the cancelled fixtures to avoid a log jam in April.

This Saturday Wales, under a new coaching team, take on a rejuvenated French team with kick-off at 4.45pm. There is a club bus going to Cardiff, please contact the club to secure a seat.

There was a bumper crowd at the club and a great atmosphere for the Irish game and we hope to replicate that on Saturday – and on March 7, at 4.45pm again, versus England.

On the night of March 6, the junior section are running a quiz evening and on March 13 the club host a Q & A night with guests Lee Byrne and Gareth Cooper. Make sure you get your tickets for both as soon as possible.

A trip to the Valleys for the Barry Chess Club

FOR the second consecutive week, the Barry Chess Club had only one match to play, and once again it was away from home at Treorchy.

This week it was the turn of the Barry Stauntons in division four to make the long trek. Our opponents, Rhondda B are in fifth place in the table. However, due to a late team selection we ended up taking a stronger team than normal. It was a case of who is available, rather than who do I want.

The team selection suggested that perhaps our third consecutive match could be won. However it didn't work out that way. Ray Denyer took a long-awaited victory but John Stephenson, Peter Watkins and Stephen Maguire could only earn draws. The match result ended in a draw so our unbeaten run has been extended.

The Stauntons remain in seventh place but with a five-point gap to the Pentre Cardinians below them. They trail Rhondda by 4.5 points.

Barry Chess Club meets at 7.30 pm most Mondays at the West End Club, St. Nicholas Road, Barry, CF62 6QY. The club is open to players of all standards; whether you are interested in playing competitive chess or just the occasional friendly games.

New players are very welcome to just turn up on the night but it is better to contact one of the club members through the website first so that we can explain what is happening on the night and arrange for someone to greet you on your arrival. St Athan vets look forward

ON February 12 the sun was out, the wind was fresh, but thankfully storm Ciara had passed and more than 30 golfers took to the fairways of St Athan Golf Club for a veterans section nine-hole Stableford competition.

some are for section cups and trophies.

For the slightly more competitive golfers, we play four-ball better ball matches, home and away, against the senior sections of 12 other golf clubs. A team of 12 or 16 players normally tee off at 11am, have a very enjoyable round of golf followed by refreshments and a hearty meal.

So, if you just fancy playing in friendly golf competitions on Wednesday mornings on an easy walking golf course, or would also like slightly more competitive matches against other clubs over the spring and summer months, then come and join us.

For fixtures and results see our veterans section page on www.stathan golfclub.wales

The Blood and Blacks defy Storm Dennis

IT IS IN POOR TASTE AFTER A WEEKEND THAT BROUGHT SEVERE FLOODING TO PARTS OF SOUTH WALES TO GRUMBLE ABOUT THE NUMBER OF RUGBY AND FOOTBALL GAMES THAT WERE CANCELLED.

However, it is OK, we think, to praise any clubs who did go ahead and play, so hats off to Llantwit Major RFC, who welcomed Hirwaun RFC to their base in the Vale. Thanks to Andrew Halligan for the report.

AS STORM DANIEL BROUGHT 45MPH WINDS AND TORRENTIAL RAIN TO THE REGION, IT WAS A SURPRISE THAT THIS MATCH EVEN TOOK PLACE LAST SATURDAY AFTERNOON – AND THEN FOR THE BLOOD AND BLACKS OF LLANTWIT TO WIN THE GAME 42-5 AND SCORE SIX TRIES WAS NOTHING SHORT OF REMARKABLE.

Llantwit started the game at breakneck speed, notching up three tries within the first quarter as hooker Huw Williams and centre Josh Austin both crossed.

They were then awarded a penalty try after wing Alex Parry was hauled down illegally on a kick chase to the line. It gave the team a great start and a 21-0 lead.

For the rest of the first half the game tightened up considerably as Hirwaun battled back and put some good phases together as they worked nicely off their nine and ten to gain some forward domination. The Llantwit defence was having to work hard to keep them out and just managed to until the break.

In the second half Llantwit, now playing towards the School End, began with the same flourish as in the first, this time Alex Parry crossing in the bottom corner within minutes of the restart. Howley slotted over his third conversion, which was another remarkable story in its own right, three out of three from distance at awkward angles in a storm!

Llantwit, now 28 points to the good, began making tactical changes, but if anything gave the visiting team even more problems with Stuart Edbrooke coming on into the centre and scoring two cracking tries. The second completed a great team try started in their own 22.

Hirwaun had the final say. As they had done for the entire game, they battled and battled and finally found a dent in the Llantwit defence to force themselves over the line with a fine example of picking and going in the tight.

It was a great performance by the Llantwit Major team then but also by the club, this game only one of eight games played in the country, such was the damage done by Storm Dennis. The team would like to thank once again the battered spectators who were just as remarkable in number and most importantly, the backroom staff who worked, as always, tirelessly to get the pitch playable – none more so than the great clubman that is John Davies, still sprightly in his 70s and out with the garden fork in the torrential wind and rain. Without such men, there would be no rugby. We applaud you Mr Davies.

Man of the match was wing Alex Parry who had a great game, looking lively with the ball in hand and showing great confidence in dealing with defensive kicks. Further mention should go to Dafy Davies, who gave a master class in No 8 play.

The performance was top draw and so exceptional as, despite the truly awful conditions, the handling was sublime at times; and must surely put to bed some ridiculous notions in some quarters that this team, after a slight mid-winter dip, can't play in the wet!

This week there is another enforced Six Nations break before the following Saturday, when the Llantoniens make the trip up the Rhondda Valley to take on Treherbert once again. And if the recent match was anything to go by, another power house game will be on offer, with the Red Devils already promising a fiery welcome.

Barry look forward to clash against old rivals Caernarfon

Caernarfon celebrate scoring in the Welsh Cup against Barry.

AFTER THEIR JD CYMRU OF WALES SAW BARRY WIN 2-0 AT THE OVAL THAT OCTOBER. IT WOULD PROVE THE FIRST OF NO FEWER THAN 17 CONSECUTIVE HEAD-TO-HEAD VICTORIES FOR THE JENNER PARK OUTFIT.

CHESTERFIELD'S BARRY WELCOME FAMILIAR FOES CAERNARFON TO JENNER PARK ON SATURDAY (FEBRUARY 22), HOPING TO WEATHER THE STORMS POSED BY AN INCREASINGLY-TURBULENT CHAMPIONSHIP CONFERENCE.

With a 4-0 win over the Canaries installing Connah's Quay Nomads as the league's new leaders, new boss Huw Griffiths will be eager to get his Caernarfon team back on track at Jenner Park, while Chesterfield will know his Barry side cannot afford to drop any points this weekend, especially with only three home games left in their league campaign after Saturday's encounter.

With Nomads, TNS and Bala all having plenty to play for and Newtown circling as recurring bogey opponents, Caernarfon at home is surely a must-win and though Griffiths has yet to bring a Cofis team to Barry, the men from the north Wales coast are far from strangers to the Jenner faithful.

Indeed, the dangers posed by the likes of Darren Thomas, Nathan Craig and others have been a regular feature of Sgorio broadcasts in recent years, with Caernarfon attempting to qualify for European football for the first time in a history played out largely over the border in England.

Long-time followers will recall that Barry and Caernarfon were two of Wales' so-called 'Irate Eight', the eight defiant clubs who resisted placement in the newly-created League of Wales back in 1992.

The fall-out from this stand-off forced the Barry first team to fulfil their home fixtures 100 miles from Jenner Park at Worcester City's St George's Lane, while Caernarfon soldiered on from their own makeshift base at Curzon Ashton, Manchester, a four-hour return trip from The Oval.

By 1995, after respective crowds across the border had dipped dangerously into double-figures, both clubs had sensed the writing on the wall and switched to the Welsh pyramid, although unlike fellow rebels Barry, Caernarfon were not required to win promotion to secure their seat at the top table.

In their farewell season as a Northern Premier League club, Caernarfon finished ahead of current League One side Fleetwood, much as Barry had eclipsed Newport and Forest Green in the south.

Kick-off between Barry and Caernarfon Town this Saturday is at 2.30pm.

Cowbridge Darts League Highwayman Inn close the gap on league leaders Edmondes B...

FEBRUARY 11 WAS AN INTERESTING EVENING AT THE FARMERS ARMS.

The Hairy Farmers were up against last year's champions and this year's league leaders, the Edmondes B. At the end of the singles matches the Hairy Farmers had an 8-5 lead, helped along by Tim Knight (Hairy Farmers) hitting a 120 three-dart-out. Another notable individual performance was Martin Thomas (Edmondes B) who hit a 118 three-dart-out to win a leg in 9 darts. In the first doubles match, John Izzard and Tim Knight were very unlucky not to win 2-0, but the score was eventually 2-1 giving the Hairy Farmers a 10-6 lead. For the Edmondes B, winning that leg turned out to be very important as they went on to win the next two doubles matches 2-0 and draw the game at 10-10.

This helped the Highwayman Inn, by beating the Red Lion 15-6, to close the gap at the top of the table. In this match Tom Verrill (Highwayman) hit a 180. In the other matches the Victoria Inn beat the Edmondes A 13-8 and the Town Hall Criers beat the Edmondes C 14-9. The Farmers Arms had a bye. Present league standings after 11 weeks, are: Edmondes B (143 points), Highwayman Inn (134), Victoria Inn (115), Hairy Farmers (104), Farmers Arms (99), Edmondes A (96), Town Hall Criers (94), Edmondes C (80) and Red Lion Inn (65).

On Tuesday, February 25 The Town Hall Criers host the Farmers Arms, the Highwayman Inn hosts the Edmondes A, the Edmondes B hosts the Edmondes C and the Hairy Farmers host the Red Lion Inn. The Victoria Inn have a bye.

All matches start at 8.15pm; for further information e-mail Paul at cwidgeridge@gmail.com. Up-to-date information can be found on the website: www.darts.apsn.co.uk.

Penallta are too strong for Ath Generals

PENALLTA'S 4G PITCH MEANT THAT THE GAME BETWEEN PENALLTA SECOND XV AND BRIDGEND ATHLETIC GENERALS PENALLTA'S 4G PITCH WAS ONE OF THE FEW FIXTURES IN WALES TO SURVIVE STORM DENNIS.

Penallta had a squad of 32 mainly experienced players – exactly the number of points they scored in a 32-0 win – and they proved too strong on the day for the Athletic Generals, who were giving four Youth players an experience of senior rugby.

In very testing conditions, despite the Athletic defending well on occasions, Penallta were clinical in finishing on their excursions into the Athletic 22.

The score line would have been less flattering to the home side if the Athletic had taken their chances,

The pick of the Athletic forwards were locks Ben Cording and youth player Morgan Bennett, with wing Ryan Pickford standing out in the backs. The three other youth players on show were hooker Jack Obbard, flanker Josh Llewellyn and wing George Tellem also had good games.
